Annual Publication of the Cadet Corps
Augusta Military Academy
Fort Defiance, Virginia

Foreword

We, the Staff of the Recall for the year 1939, have, to the best of our ability, endeavored to prepare an Annual that we sincerely hope will serve as a true and impartial chronicle of the events of the school year, and will be the means, in later years, of recalling to memory the faces of our friends now so well known to us all.

Dedication

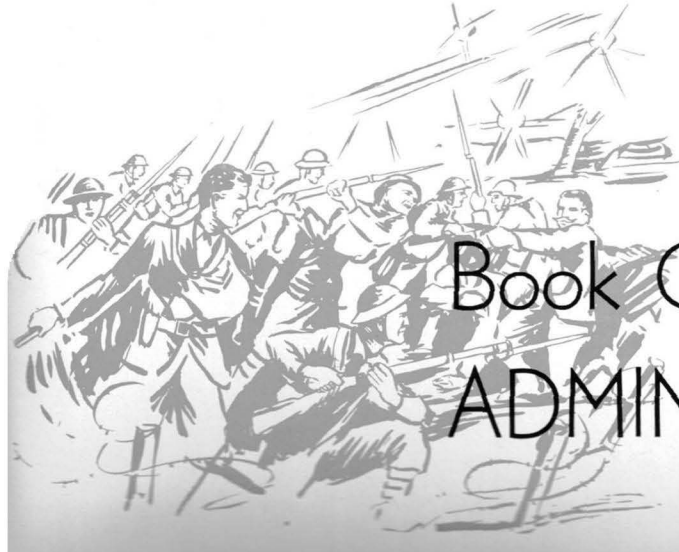

We, the Staff of the 1939 Recall, dedicate this publication to

MAJOR ROY F. LYND

Detailed here by the War Department in 1935 as Professor of Military Science and Tactics, he has succeeded admirably in instilling into us the knowledge of the practice and theory of military science that has enabled us to become one of the Honor Military Schools of the United States each year he has been here.

He is a man of the greatest integrity; a gentleman of the old school; and an officer of the finest type. In his work among us, he has shown us that he can combine the efficiency of the officer, the understanding of the disciplinarian, the instincts of the gentleman, and the ability of the teacher into the goal of all men—a man.

THE OFFICERS OF THE STUDENT BODY

ALFRED E. BRUCH President
CHARLES L. BOARD Vice-President
GEORGE T. LEATHERMAN Secretary
EDWIN M. ALDRICH Treasurer

It is truly said that the officers of the Student Body hold the highest positions attainable. Elected by the students, they are the leaders and the friends of every cadet. Upon these four men devolve responsibilities admittedly the most difficult that can be imposed. We say, moreover, that they have met these responsibilities and that the successful progress of the corps throughout the past session is due to their hard and earnest labor.

Al Bruch was honored by the presidency of this noteworthy group. His past record as a leader in every branch of curricula and extra-curricula activities left no one more suitable for this position.

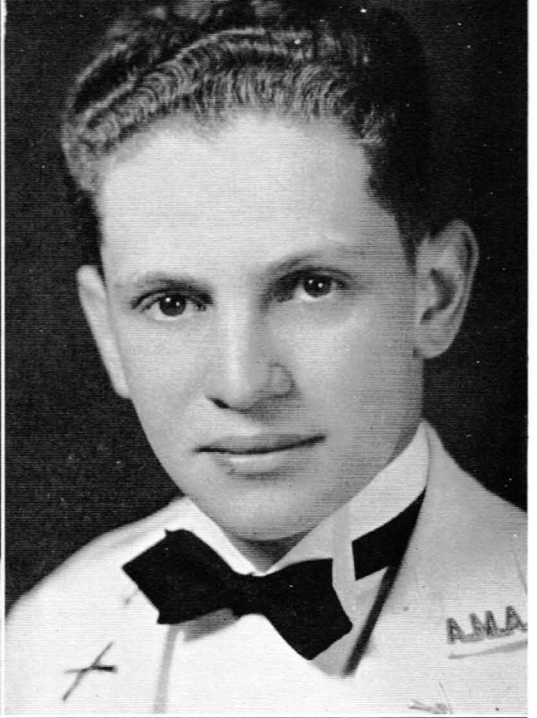

To Charlie Board, the boy whose ability is surpassed by not even his size, we hand the silver platter of appreciation. We can unreservedly state that Vice-President Pudge rates as the most conscientious cadet at Augusta.

Secretary George Leatherman, assistant captain of the boxing team, seems to have been just the man for this job. Just as high as his pugilistic ability must be rated his integrity and honesty, which are important to any office holder.

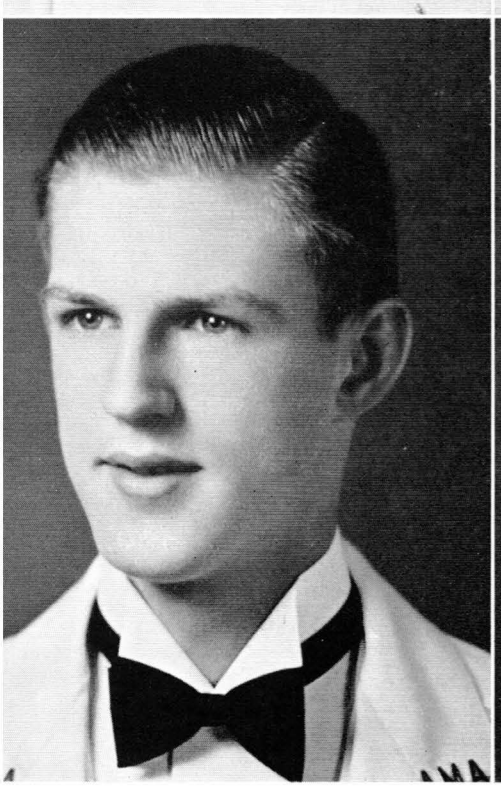

Ed Aldrich was elected our treasurer. The ogre of Co. "D" has such a sense of justice and fair play, and an executive ability excelled by none, that his presence was imperative among the officers of the Student Body.

EDWIN M. ALDRICH

749 Alhambra Circle
Coral Gables, Florida

It is indeed true that a man's actions speak louder than his words, and this is especially true of Ed, the guiding light of "D" Company. Under his supervision, the junior company of the battalion has progressed from the well-known version of the Saturday afternoon scrubbing squad to a perfected military unit.

He completes his four years' stay at Augusta with the combined honors of Treasurer of both the Student Body and Honor Committee. His actions have truly spoken louder than words, and anything more we say would be anti-climax.

MELVIN G. ALPER

Wytheville, Virginia

Mel, our Number One man of the graduating class, has been with us for three years. During this time he has shown his versatile ability in many ways. He is twice winner of the "Best in Latin" medal, has been on the various A. M. A. publications for the first two years, and this year is both Co-Editor-in-Chief and Business Manager of The Bayonet, and is Business Manager of The Recall.

We know you will succeed in Virginia's Medical School, and we wish you success in later life.

JACK BAMFORD

Avenue C
Schuylkill Haven, Pennsylvania

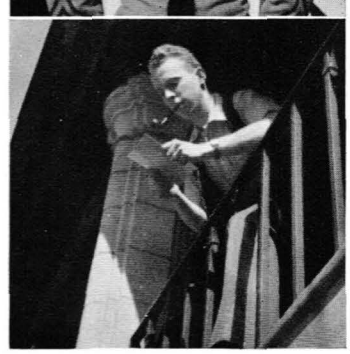

It has often been said that a man's real worth is not known until after his departure. This old and wise saying can be applied to Jack without any hesitation on anyone's part.

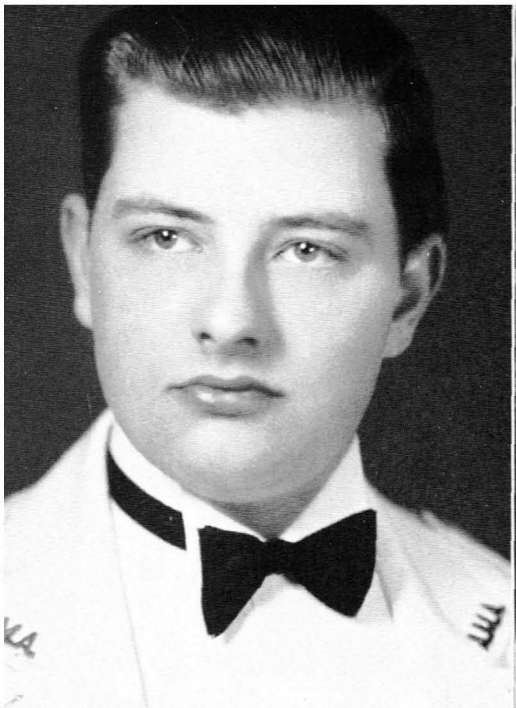

During his two years at Augusta, he has been a constant member of the Honor Roll and is twice holder of monograms in swimming and once in football. His ability as a N. C. O. is unquestionable, and we are certain that the Corps of 1939-40 will miss his all-around ability.

FRANK R. BELL

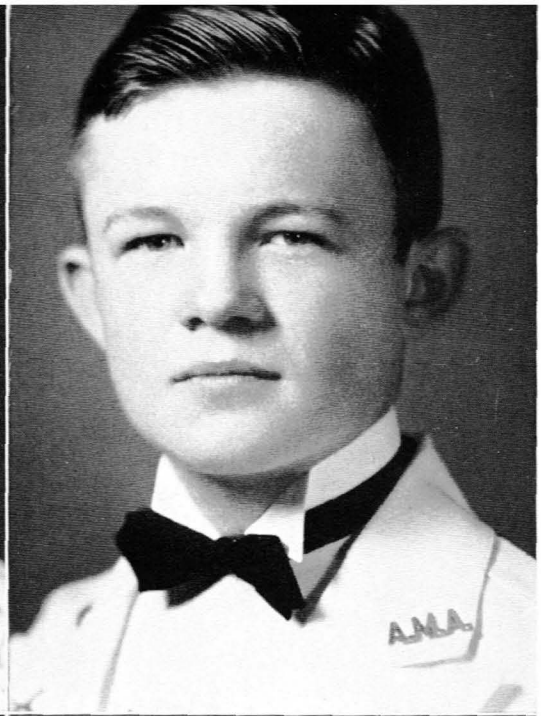

20 Brook Street
Charleston, West Virginia

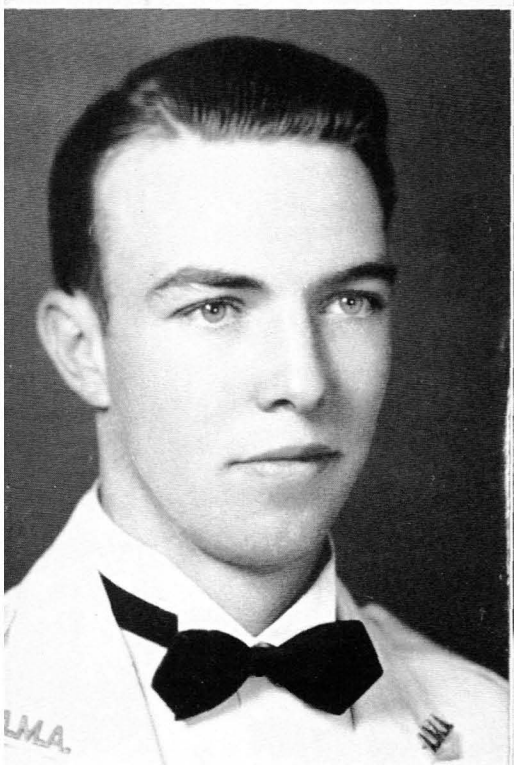

Bud's record leaves a deep impression in the minds of all of us. He excels in military and social life especially. Every year he has been eligible for an office, he has received an unusually high one, and this year is a Lieutenant in Company "A." His social peak was reached this year when he was appointed assistant leader of the Final Ball. We know he will succeed at Washington and Lee.

ALFRED E. BRUCH

2943 Benton Place, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Putt-Putt, our Battalion Commander and President of the Student Body, is one of our best-liked cadets. He has been our chief movie projectionist for four years and has devoted himself and his time to the presentation of good movies to the cadets. He is Vice-President of the Literary Society and leader of the Final Ball.

Putt is one of the finest persons with whom we have had the pleasure of coming in contact, and we wish him success in later years.

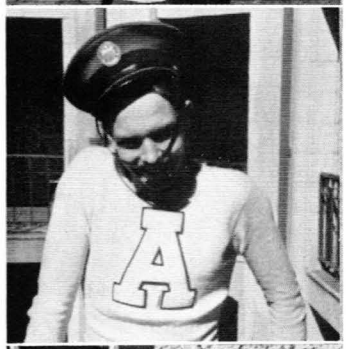

MARVIN B. CAPPEL

Box 1984
Alexandria, Louisiana

Marvin is always waiting for letters from Agnes Scott School for Girls, and he invariably waits for a fuse or light to blow out. He has been the poor unfortunate who holds the title of school electrician.

He was made a corporal this year, but the things we will remember about him longest were his outbursts in Lit class and his ever willingness to argue about electrons and protons. If his mania for inventing things does not get him into trouble, we are sure he will be a success in later years.

THOMAS H. CARTER, JR.

Round Hill, Virginia

Often referred to as the most improved second-year cadet, Tommy has made an impression on the minds of his classmates that will live for a long time to come. He jumped from the ranks to the Honor Roll, to a Corporal in Company "A," to captain of the track team, and to a regular on the football team.

He will be missed next year, but we know that wherever he goes his overflowing energy will bring him out on top.

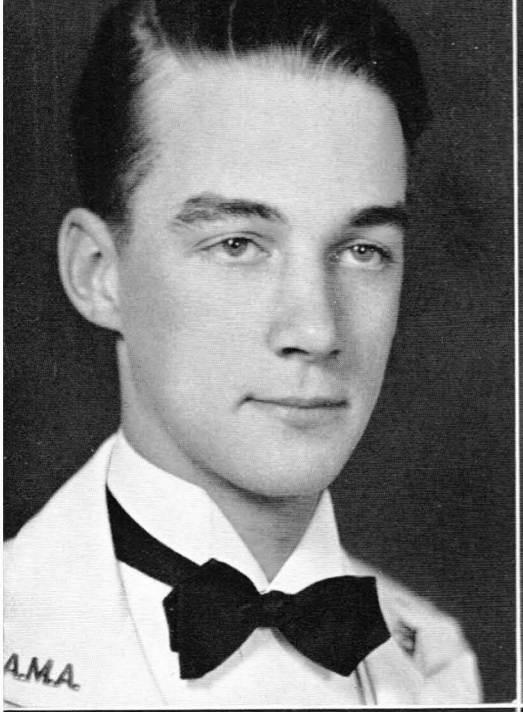

DAVID W. COLLINS

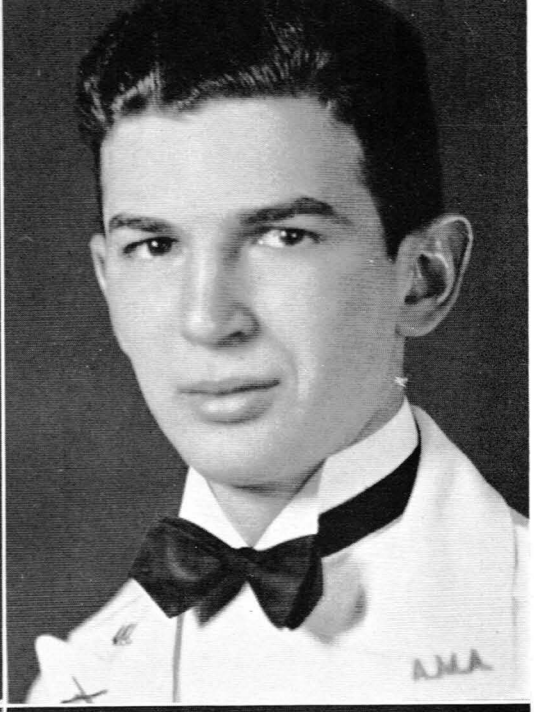

R. F. D. No. 1
Frankfort, Kentucky

The astounding knowledge of horseflesh that has been compacted in Dave has astonished many members of the Cavalry. He has risen from the ranks to First Lieutenant of Company "D." It fell upon him to take his charges to their weekly shower, and it is a wonder that he did not drown.

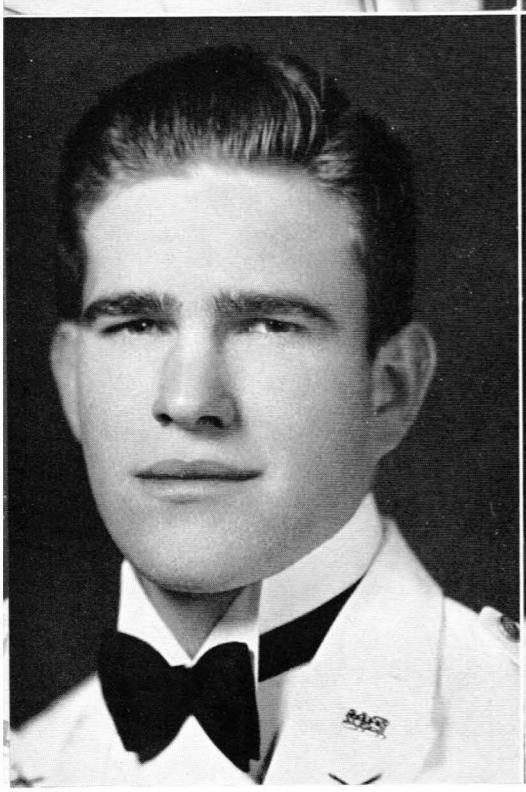

This exponent of the Cavalry will return to Kentucky with the satisfaction of knowing that his stay at Augusta was not wasted years and that he will long live in the memory of the class of '39.

WARFIELD CURRY
399 N. EUCLID STREET
ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI

Warfield has become our number one Bridge fanatic and has improved his game one hundred per cent, during his stay at Augusta. His woes of dismay at his partner's mistakes can be heard above the noise of the crowd. Aside from Bridge, he has proven his ability at fencing and has become the coach as well as the captain of the team.

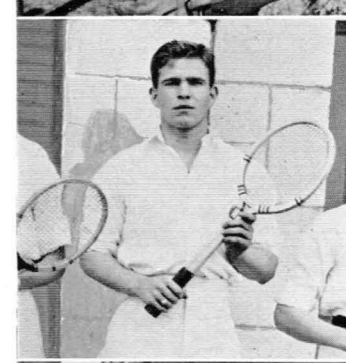

We are all behind you, Warfield, and may our wishes of good luck continue with you through life.

RAFAEL ESCALLON
BOX NO 50
CARTAGENA, COLOMBIA

"In my country——." Hold everything, Rafe is again loose on his wild tales about Colombia.

In three years Rafe has grown from six feet two to six feet five, and his knowledge has increased with the great leap in height. He came to us unable to speak a word of English, and now he is more efficient in the language than many native sons. We all expect to see him President of Colombia some day, and we hope he will become the future Bolivar of South America.

THOMAS N. GASQUE
312 S. IRBY STREET
FLORENCE, SOUTH CAROLINA

The future senator from South Carolina has gotten himself more publicity with his views on how the nation should be run than many of our famous Presidents.

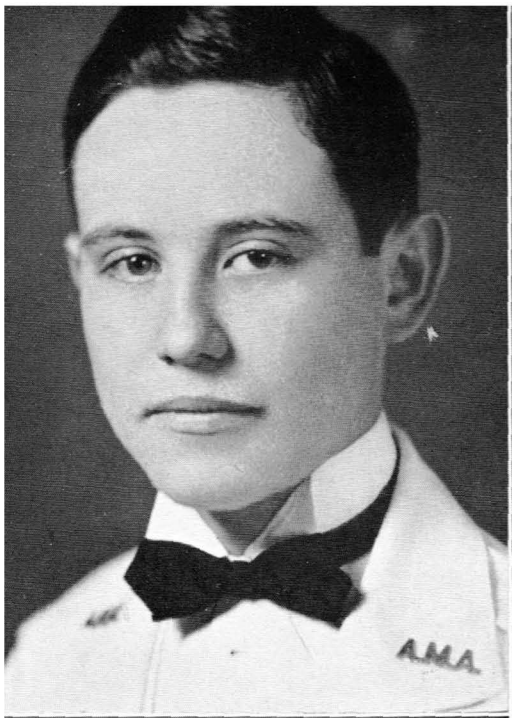

He completes his four years at Augusta with a First Lieutenancy in Company "B." He has tried hard to be proficient in this capacity and we are expecting him to go far in future life.

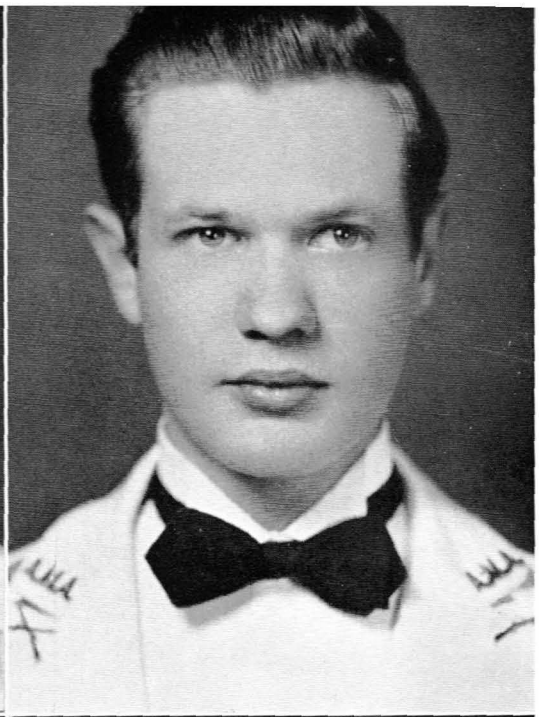

CECIL G. GNANN
425 BULL STREET
SAVANNAH, GEORGIA

"The man with the five hundred dollar bugle." That is the title that the base horn has earned for its proficient little master.

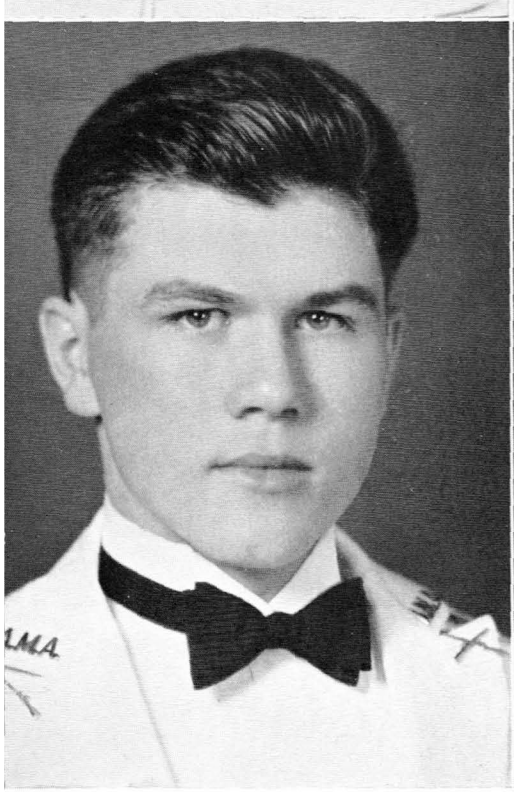

In his quiet and unassuming way, Cecil has earned the love and devotion of all who have come in contact with him. His outbreaks in Lit class have earned him many votes as the wittiest and his horn-blowing has earned him his hard-gotten title. It is with tears of regret in our eyes that we bid you Auf Wiedersehen, old boy.

MARVIN E. GORDON
2737 DEVONSHIRE PLACE, N. W.
WASHINGTON, D. C.

And must you be gone too, Mickey? It seems that all of our loved and close friends must depart with this year's graduating class.

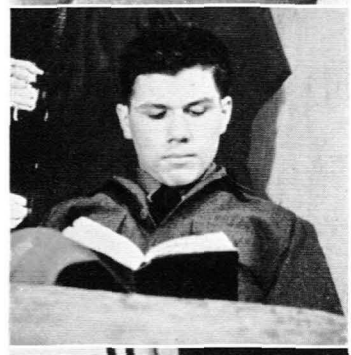

In his four years at Augusta, Mickey has been elected to represent the fourth year class on the Honor Committee, and has been appointed First Sergeant in Company "B." He has been on the Honor Roll many times during his four years and we hope that he does well at Penn next year.

JOHN M. HACKNEY, JR.
36 E. BURKE AVENUE
TOWSON, MARYLAND

"Oh, I must see Annie tonight." This is the favorite phrase attached to our friend, Hock. He takes in all in a jolly manner and continues to pollute the telephone with nickels.

He has been with us for four years and is our very efficient First Lieutenant of Company "A." He completes his stay at Augusta with the highest of honors and our admiration for him was shown when we elected him to the Honor Committee. We wish him the best of luck at W. and L. next year.

JOHN H. HOPKINS
310 N. POTOMAC STREET
HAGERSTOWN, MARYLAND

Often referred to as Johnnie's best man, Pete has come to the end of his four years at Augusta with the many regrets that always accompany pleasant acquaintances.

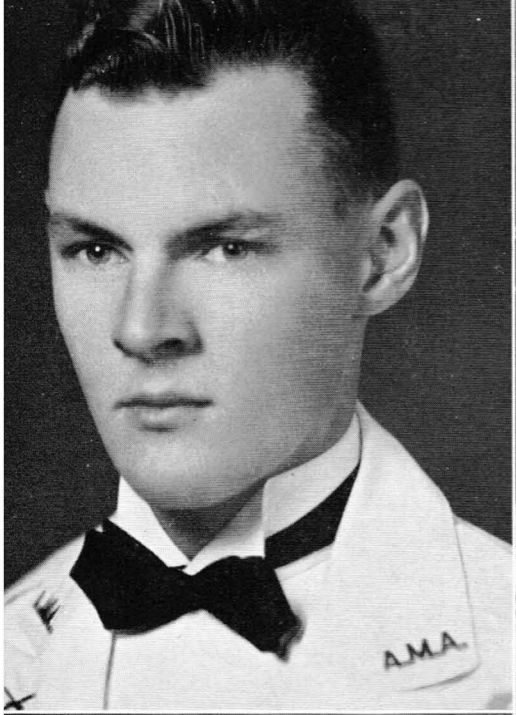

He has been a constant trifler and has enjoyed the popularity he deserves. Though he does not stand at the top of his class, he has tried hard to be near the top and has succeeded. He graduates as Second Lieutenant of Company "B" and he has been a very efficient officer.

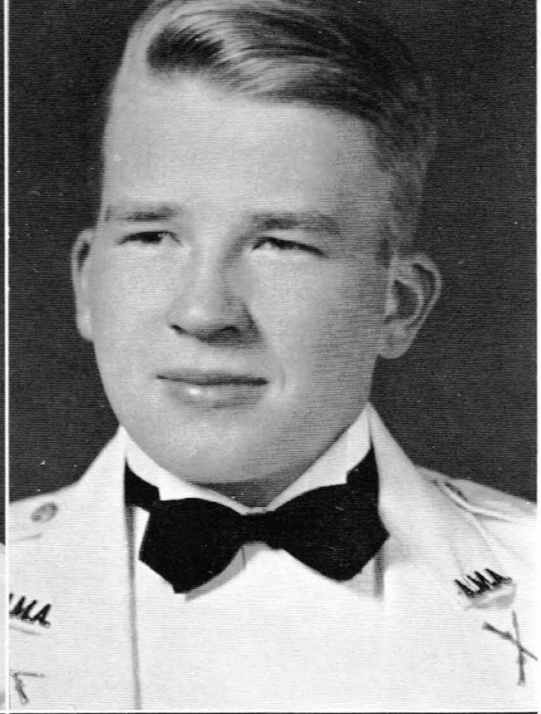

EDGAR B. JOHNSON
909 SOROLLA AVENUE
CORAL GABLES, FLORIDA

Always ready to oblige with a good ole story of Miami, E. B. has become a necessary part of school life. All the members of the History class enjoy his tall stories of the Chief Okechobe and the other Florida Indians. He will probably become one of Uncle Sam's best sailors when he gets that ninety dollars a month that we all know so well.

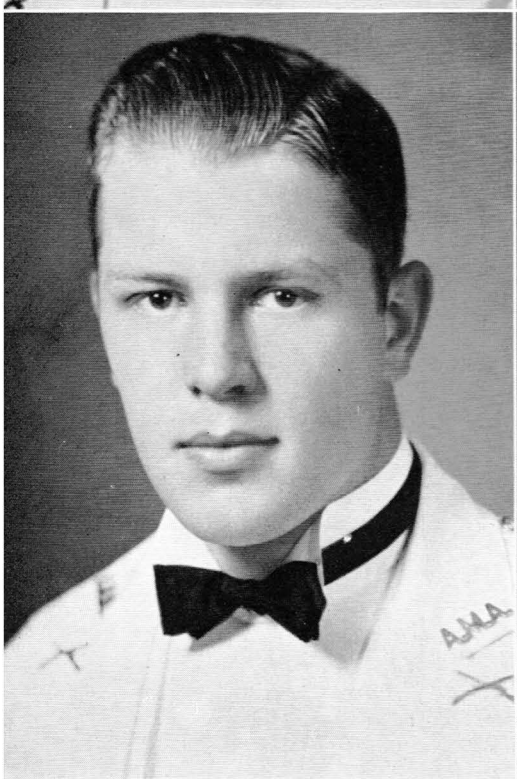

Although E. B. does not lead his classes, he is one of Captain Rod's best Spanish students. It's hard to say farewell, Edgar, old boy, but if you gotta go you gotta go.

Evan has made quite a reputation for himself as a football player and as a good hand with the ladies. His football ability was shown the day that he gave S. M. A. the scare of its life by his magnificent run-back of eighty-eight yards, and his ability with the women is shown every time there is a dance.

We are going to miss his combined abilities next year, but we know that he will make good at the University of Pennsylvania.

CALVIN C. JONES, JR.

1818 KALORAMA ROAD, N. W.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Cal is always ready to lend a helping hand to anybody who may need it. He has been famous for his ability to get extra deserts for members of his table in the Mess Hall, and he gets everybody's vote for being the best C. W.

Aside from his Mess Hall activities, he has been a very active member of the Cotillion Club and has been a very able First Sergeant on the Staff. His graduation completes four years at Augusta and the best wishes of all his classmates are sure to go with him.

GEORGE F. MARABLE

RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

Through his outstanding good nature, George has endeared himself to all. He has been a very active trombone blower and has been the mainstay of the rear rank of the band at Parade.

Foggy completes his two years with the position of a corporal in the Band. We hope that you succeed in your future and may you always have the best of everything.

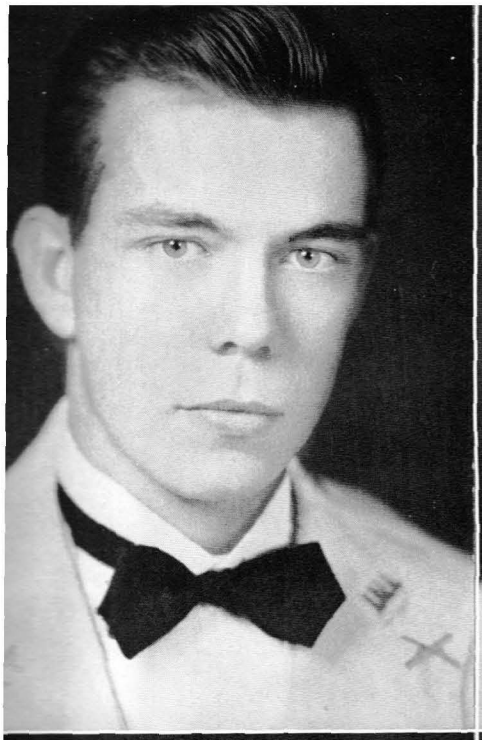

ROBERT J. MITCHELL

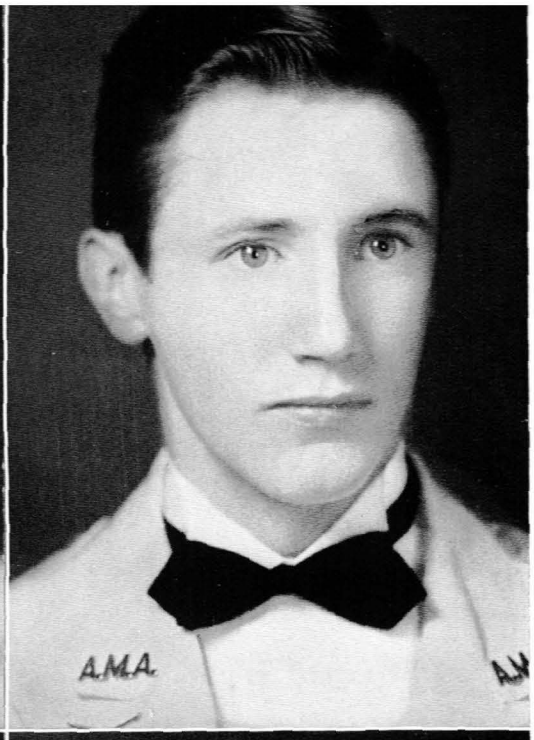

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, MARYLAND

"Stand at attention, you——." That is the most familiar cry of Bob, who completes three successful years at A. M. A. Since his appearance three years ago he has steadily climbed toward that position that he now holds. This year saw him captain of the basketball team and one of the best students in school.

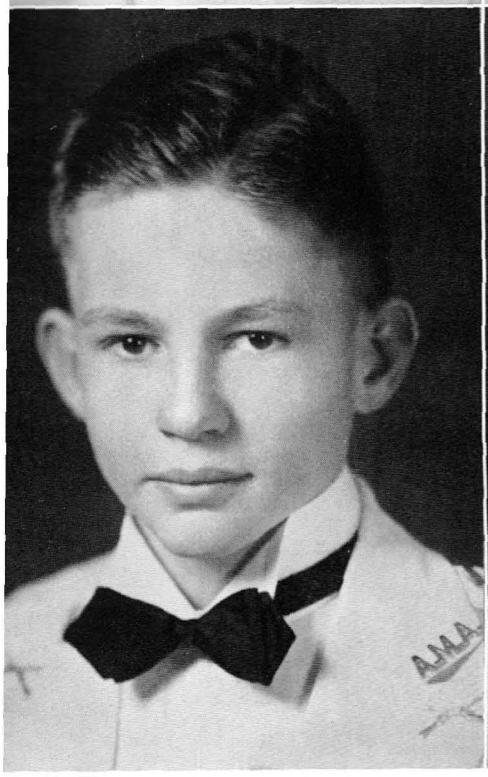

You will be missed next year, Bob, but we know that you will succeed in your undertakings at Cornell in later life.

Seriously, though, Walter has come a long way from the boy he was three years ago. He has been a Sergeant in Company "A" and has been a member of the basketball team. We know that you will come through at Cornell, and we wish you the best of luck.

JOHN G. McCUNE

2361 BRYDEN ROAD

COLUMBUS, OHIO

John, the mathematical genius of room 203, has solved another unworkable problem. Aside from being very active in mathematics, Mac has been on the staffs of the various A. M. A. publications.

He has been an active member of the Y. M. C. A., and this year was elected Secretary. He has been very efficient in the manner of his work, and when he becomes a patent lawyer, we all know that he will be a success.

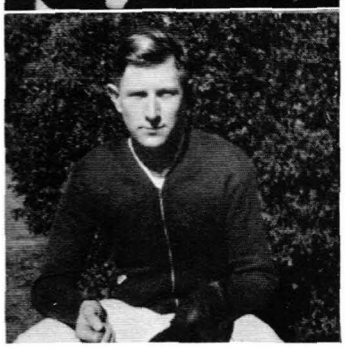

FRANCIS P. McINTIRE

122 E. 220TH STREET

SAVANNAH, GEORGIA

"My First Sergeant of the Cavalry," as Major Roller refers to Mac, has come a long way from the small boy who came to us three years ago. He has two monograms in swimming and is very efficient as a Platoon Sergeant in Company "D."

He has been an off and on member of the Honor Roll, and while he does not lead his classes, he stands very near the top. We are going to miss you next year, Mac, but we hope and know that success will be yours.

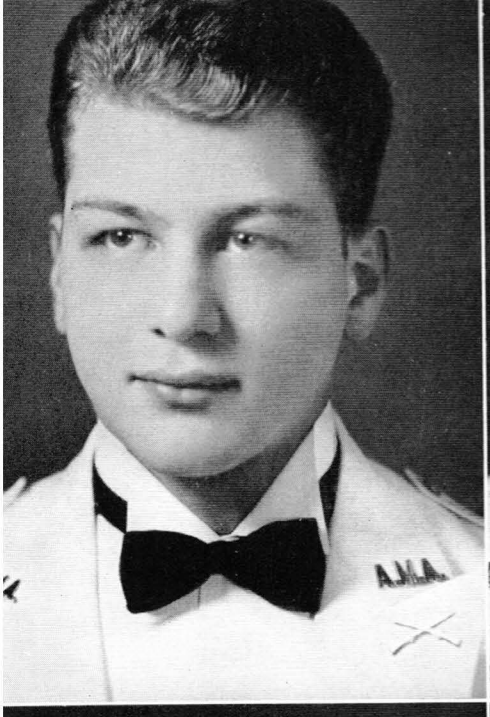

BRENT A. RILEY

FAYETTEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Brent is one of the army officer's sons who double-crossed their years of training by trying to get into the Naval Academy. He has tried hard in all his studies and his work shows his endeavor.

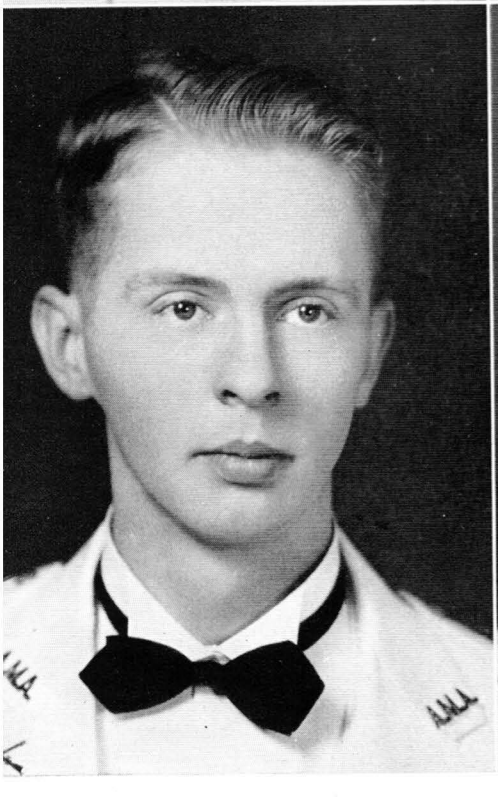

A member of the baseball team for the past two years, Brent came into his own when he drove in the winning run with Middleton High. We hope as you grow older, Brent, your success will continue as it has done at Augusta.

Aside from boxing, Willie is a very popular cadet, and holds a First Lieutenancy in Co. "C." He is a very active member of the Cotillion Club, having been elected Treasurer back in the fall. We know that you will succeed in later life, Willie, and we wish you the best of luck.

ROBERT A. SWARTZ
New Gulf, Texas

R. A. has been with us for three years, and during that time he has made quite a name for himself in the band. He has been cussed up one side and down the other for swinging the broom so hard, but he has lived through it all and come out on top.

Seriously, he has been a good student and has risen from the ranks to Lieutenant of the Band. We hope that you do as well in your future life as you have done at Augusta, and may our best wishes go with you.

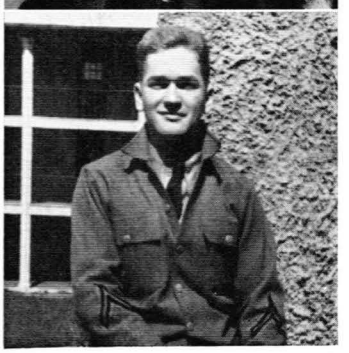

CLINTON L. THOMAS

Cleveland, Ohio

Clint has come a long way in his three years at Augusta. His ability to overcome all obstacles was shown last year when he received the "Most Improved Second Year" cup.

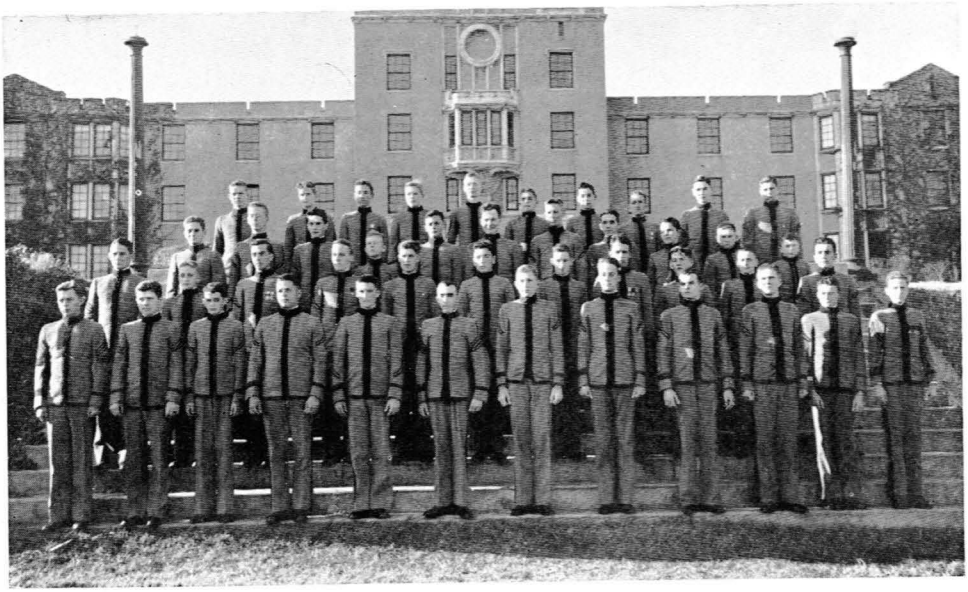

He has been an excellent student and is always on the Honor Roll. His efficiency in the military line was shown when he was appointed Platoon Sergeant in Co. "C." We hope that you will succeed at Cornell next year, Clint, and we know that we will have reason to be proud of you.

JAMES G. UMBERGER

Jimmie is the foremost music man in the battalion. He often amuses himself for hours by playing on the xylophone, and when he gets tired of that he plays the time away on the piano.

His music accomplishments have rewarded him a corporal in the Band, and he has been most efficient in the carrying out of his duties. We hope that your music career will be continued and that some day we will see you billed as the best of the best piano players.

TACTICAL

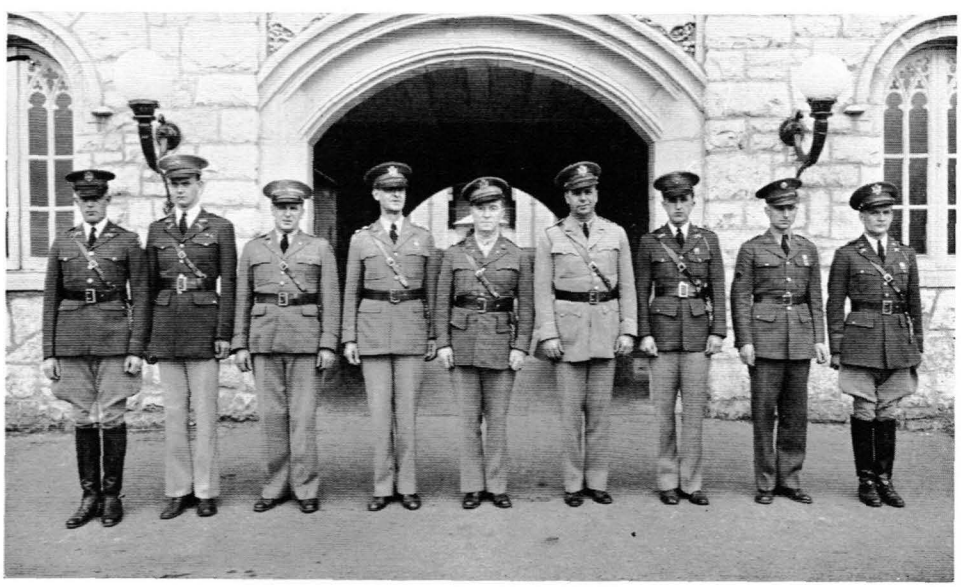

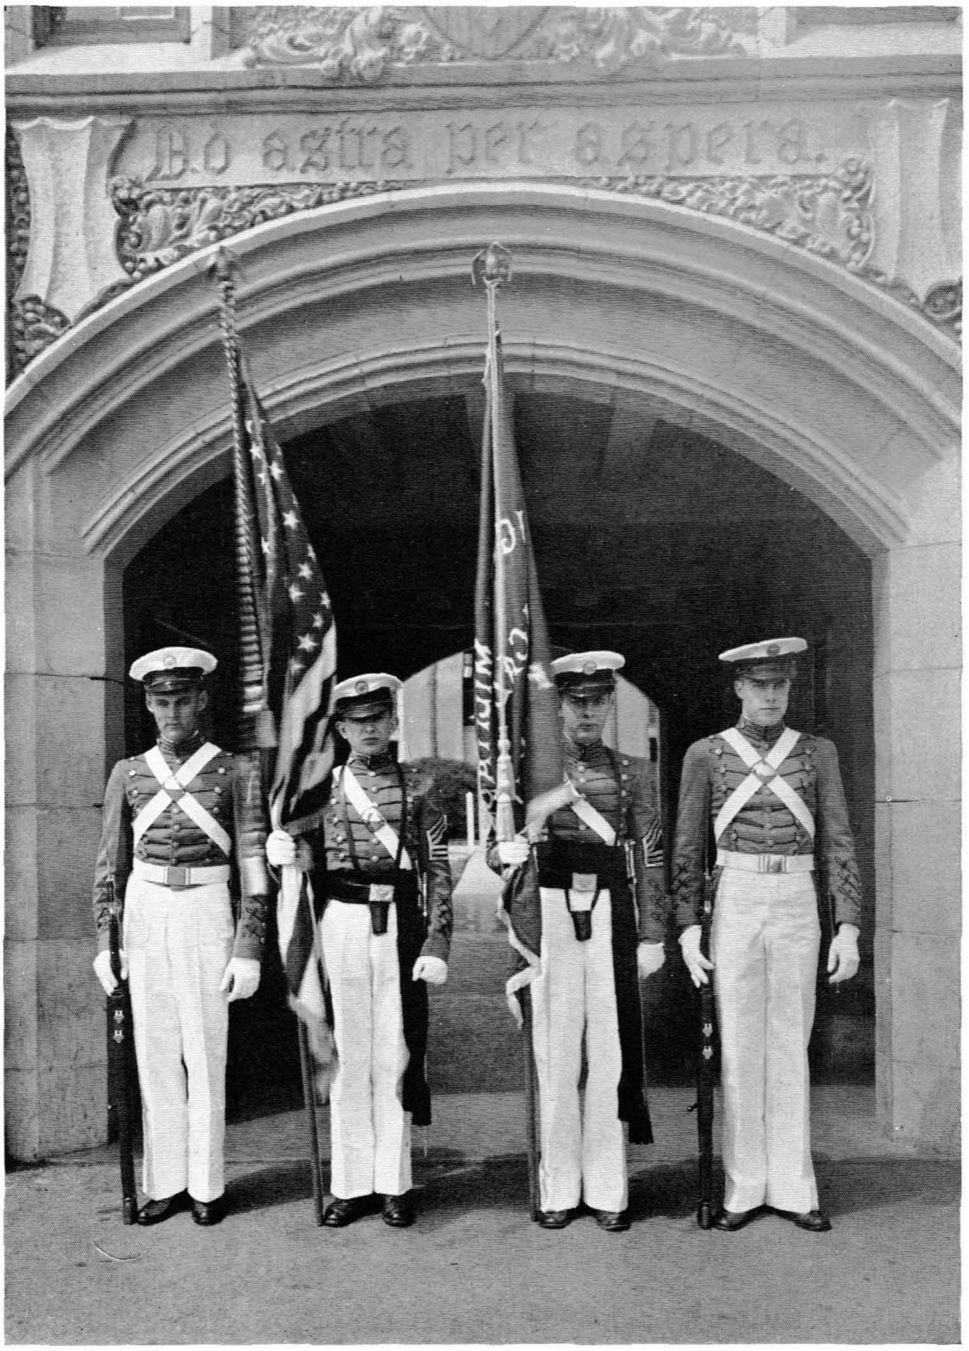

OFFICERS

The military department at Augusta is second only to the academic department. It is under the able supervision of our P. M. S. and T., Major Roy F. Lynd, who has done more than his share to keep us on top, and has willingly given up much of his spare time in order to better our military standards.

Under the able leadership of our Assistant P. M. S. and T., Lieutenant Caldwell, the new cadets were put well in line for Government Inspection, and we are certain that they all made a very good showing.

The following faculty officers were always on hand to give their assistance when needed: Major Robinson in machine gun, Major Deane in aerial photography, Captain Creel in automatic rifle, Lieutenant Jones in scouting and patrolling, Lieutenant Worsham in extended order drill, and Lieutenant Twombly and Sergeant Wales in close order drill.

ATHLETIC DIRECTORS

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." So runs the ancient adage, which has been made part of the foundation of Augusta. Athletics are a basic part of school life and are provided for the enjoyment and amusement of the cadets.

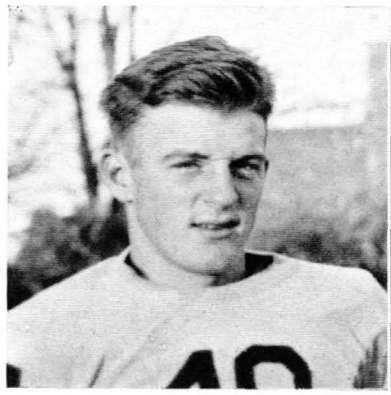

To the end of providing some sport for all, Major Roller, Athletic Adviser, has arranged facilities for participation in nearly all sports. To achieve this end, two new sports were added this year, tennis and six-man football, to the growing list of activities at Augusta.

Such a department needs leaders, and ours has them. Major Roller's years of experience as an athlete, as a coach, as an athletic director, plus his great enthusiasm and school spirit, equip him splendidly for the post of Adviser of Athletics. Major Deane took over the difficult task of Athletic Director in addition to his coaching duties, and capably filled both roles.

Our coaching staff consists of Captain House, North Carolina, football and baseball; Major Deane, Virginia, swimming, track, and junior football; Captain McCue, Virginia, boxing; Lieutenant Jones, V. M. I., football, basketball, and track; Lieutenant Twombly, V. M. I., track and six-man football; Sergeant Powell, Washington and Lee, junior football; and Lieutenant Coffman, Lynchburg, junior football and baseball.

FOOTBALL TEAM

The football team, although it did not win a game, showed much improvement over last year's team in fight and general all-around play. The team started out with an experienced backfield and an inexperienced line, but things were reversed at the end of the season as injuries riddled the backs and the line showed great improvement.

We opened with a 19-7 loss to Benedictine High School, and then journeyed to Richmond, where we lost to the powerful eleven of McGuire's School by a score of 20-0. We next lost on a bad break to Hargrave, 12-7, and to the State Championship Fork Union team, 27-0. Greenbrier's smooth-working machine beat us 24-0, and then S. M. A. ran roughshod over us, 58-0. In a game played ankle-deep in mud, the Masonic Home of Richmond beat us 11-2, and Fishburne took us into camp 14-0 in a blinding snow storm.

INTRODUCING THE LETTER MEN

Red Leatherman, Captain and Tackle. His usual position was at tackle, but he also dropped back into the backfield to do the punting.

Clay Watters, Assistant Captain and Center. He was one of the best line backers and was an able passer.

Gus Millar, End. Gus's value to the team is proved by the fact that he played every minute of every game.

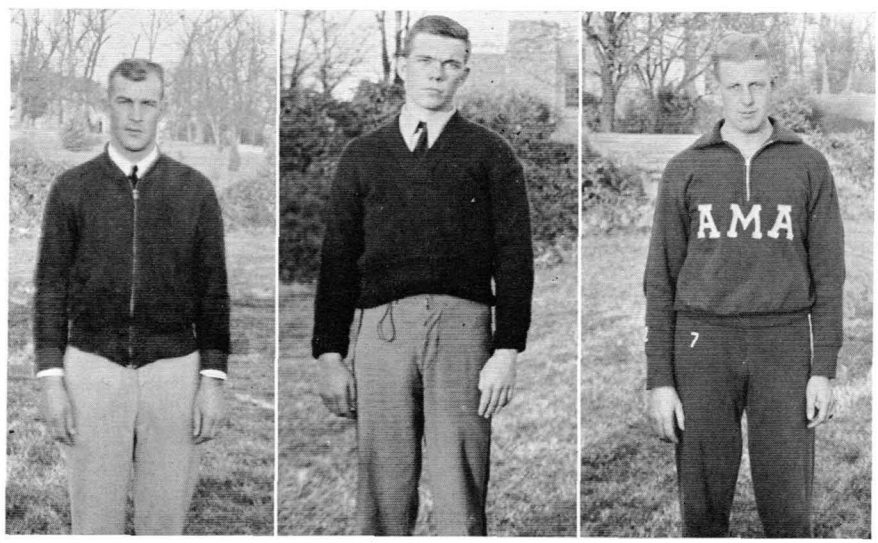

Ray Goodmon, End. A good defensive end, he made Honorable Mention for the post on the All-State team.

Jack Bamford, End. An important part of our aerial attack, he was especially good at catching wet and slippery balls.

Evan Johnson, End and Back. A good pass receiver, he shifted to the backfield, returned a punt 80 yards against S. M. A.

Curtis Walker, Tackle. A good all-around player, he was noted especially for his blocking in the line.

Howard Adams, Tackle. The bulwark of our defense, he also was Honorable Mention for All-State honors.

WATTERS JOHNSON, E. M. KENNEDY MITCHELL, R. HUNTER

Charlie Board, Guard. Playing his first year of football, he showed himself to be a cool, level-headed player.

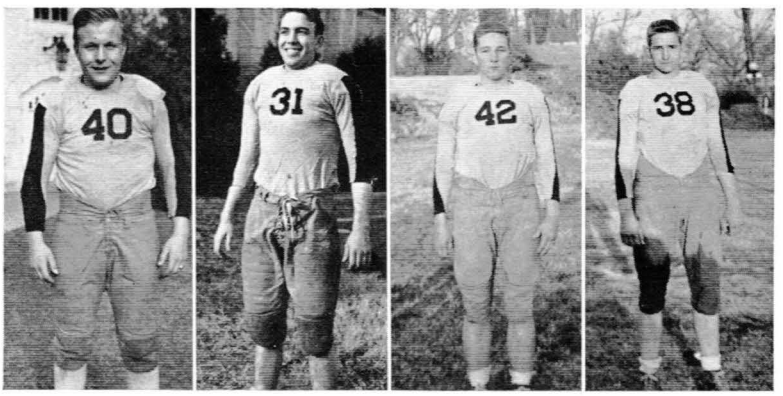

Dick Adams, Guard. He completed the left side of the line, through which very few gains were made all season.

Johnnie Hunter, Guard. One of the best men in the line when it came to breaking through and throwing opponents.

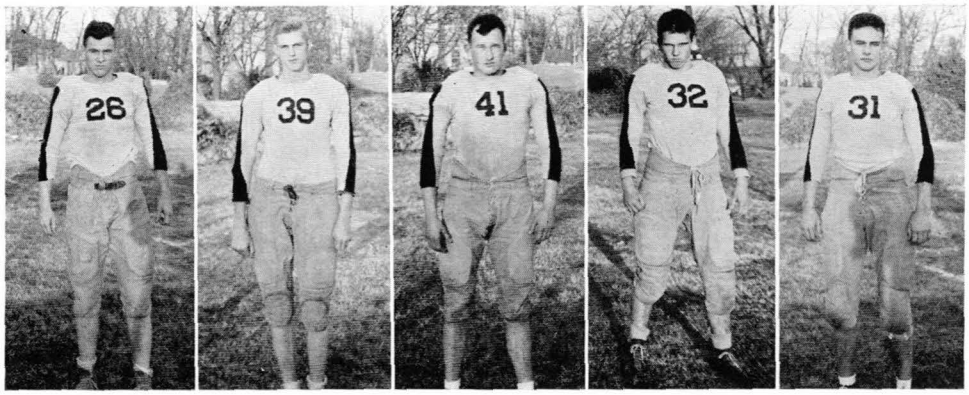

Horace Hite, Guard. One of the fastest men on the team, he was great at pulling out and leading the interference.

Bob Churchill, Center. Playing his first year of football, he proved valuable in defense against passes.

Richard Disney, Back. The triple-threat man, but he was hurt in mid-season and was not at his best later.

BOARD CARTER HARRIS MILLAR

GOODMON BAMFORD ADAMS, H. E. ADAMS, J. R. WALKER, C.

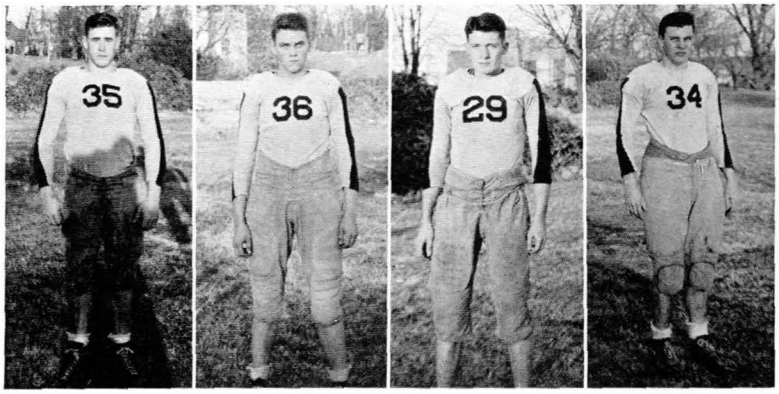

Tom Carter, Back. The unsung hero of the backfield. He did the blocking for the other backs to make gains.

Jack Kennedy, Back. The smallest man on the team, but his speed and spirit made up for his lack of size.

Bobby Faulconer, Back. A little man who was scrapping all the time, whether carrying the ball or blocking.

Woody Harris, Back. The most valuable man in the backfield, he backed up the line and gained the most ground.

Bob Mitchell, Back. A blocking back with plenty of fight, who also did some of the passing.

BASKETBALL TEAM

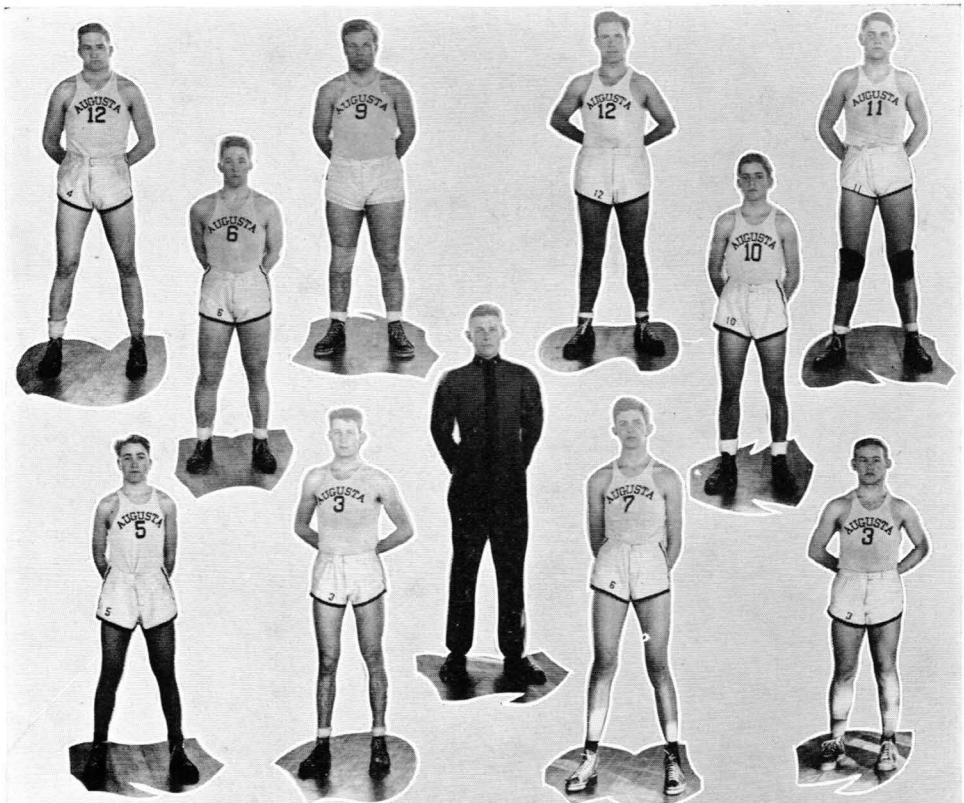

Handicapped by a lack of varsity material and playing a tough schedule, the basketball team had one of its worst seasons in recent years.

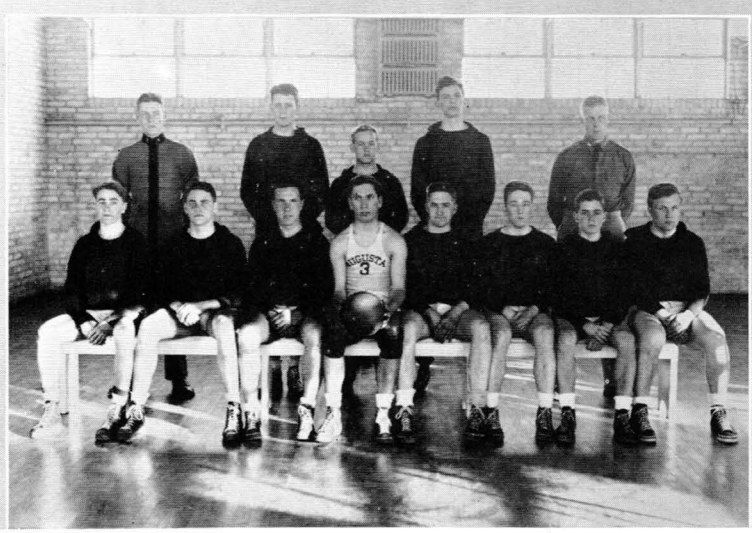

The team won but two games, but lost several games by the narrow margin of one or two points.

The team was built around two of last year's reserves, Mitchell, R., and Frexias. At the end of the season, Captain Mitchell was placed on the Honorable Mention list for the All-State Team of Military Prep Schools.

The team lost both games to Fishburne by the narrow margin of one point, and succumbed twice to our other great rival, S. M. A., after giving a battle to a much older and more experienced team. Several other games were very close and hard-fought, but lack of experience proved an insuperable handicap.

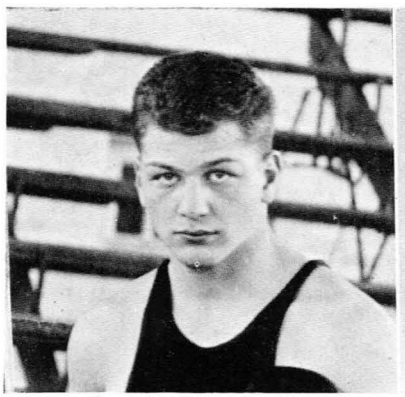

Th following men were awarded monograms at the end of the season: Captain Mitchell, R., Assistant Captain Frexias, Board, Millar, Hodges, Harris, Marks, Disney, Granda, and Churchill.

BOXING TEAM

With only one defeat to mar their record, this year's boxing team was one of which A. M. A. was truly proud. To climax a very successful season the team won the South Atlantic Boxing Tournament for the first time in eleven years.

We started the season with a 5-3 victory over Fork Union. Captain Rossello, Lee, Blumberg, Watters, and Stephenson all contributed victories. Rossello and Lee won their fights by knockouts.

For our next meet we journeyed to Low Moor, where the team had one of the toughest fights and came out by winning 5-4. Curt Walker, Augusta's heavyweight, put the meet in the victory column when he kayoed his opponent to break a 4-4 tie. Other winners were Allman, Guerrant, Rossello, and Watters.

The next bout of the season was against Miller School and it ended in a 5-5 tie, although Augusta could have claimed four forfeits in the senior weights. Coote, K., Lee, Shipplette, and Rossello all won for the Blue and White, while Allman and Blanton drew.

The team kept its record for the fourth meet by defeating a complete V. I. S. team, 5-3. Guerrant, fighting in the 120-pound class, won his fight, as did Dickerson, Rossello, Leatherman, and Walker.

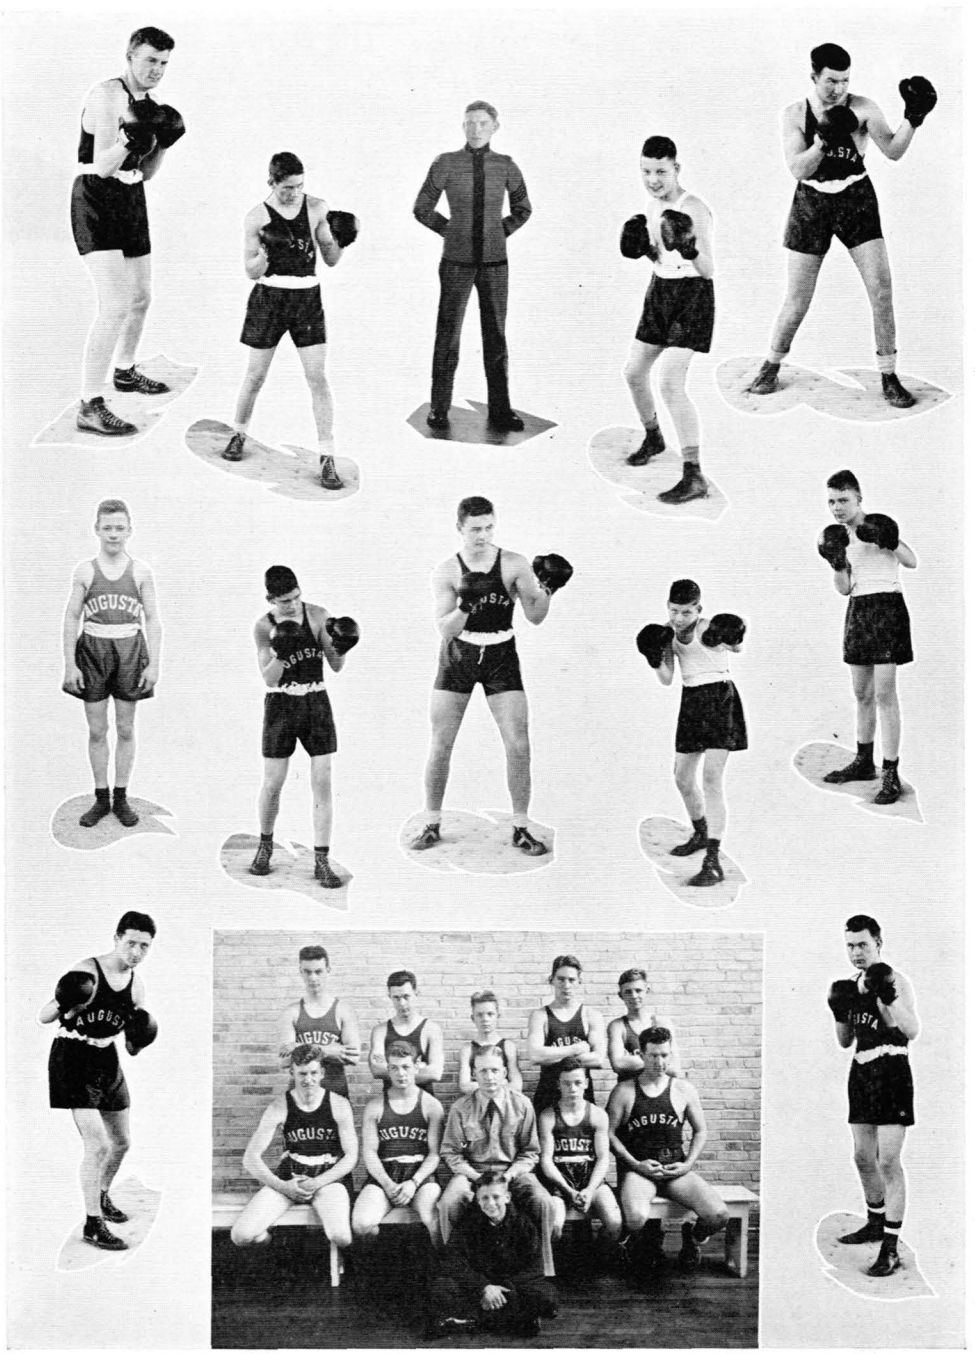

With only three days' lay-off, we met and defeated Covington High School by a score of 6-4. Allman, Blumberg, Watters, Stephenson, and Leatherman won their fights, Leatherman winning by a quick knockout. Coote and Guerrant had draws. In this meet we were without the services of Captain Willie Rossello, who was out with a bad eye.

Our last match of the season was against our ancient rival, Staunton, who won 6-2, in one of the most thrilling exhibitions seen at Augusta this year. Johnnie Shipplette won our first fight when he outpunched his opponent to win by a clear decision. Captain Willie Rossello, back in harness after a two weeks' lay-off, quickly disposed of his man in the first round, for Augusta's only other victory.

Then came the tournament, which we won for the first time in eleven years. We had three individual champions, as Captain Rossello, Coote, K., and Stephenson came out as champions in the 145, 85, and 165-pound classes. Leatherman, Dickerson, Blumberg, and Guerrant were runners-up in their respective divisions.

At the end of the tournament it was announced that A. M. A.'s Captain, Willie Rossello, who had been undefeated all year, had been voted the outstanding boxer of the year.

Much credit for the success of the team must be given to Captain McCue, who in his second year as varsity coach, took boys who had never boxed before and made champions out of them.

SWIMMING TEAM

This year's swimming team, which was pursued by a series of illnesses and injuries, and was swimming a very hard schedule, came through to establish a really fine record.

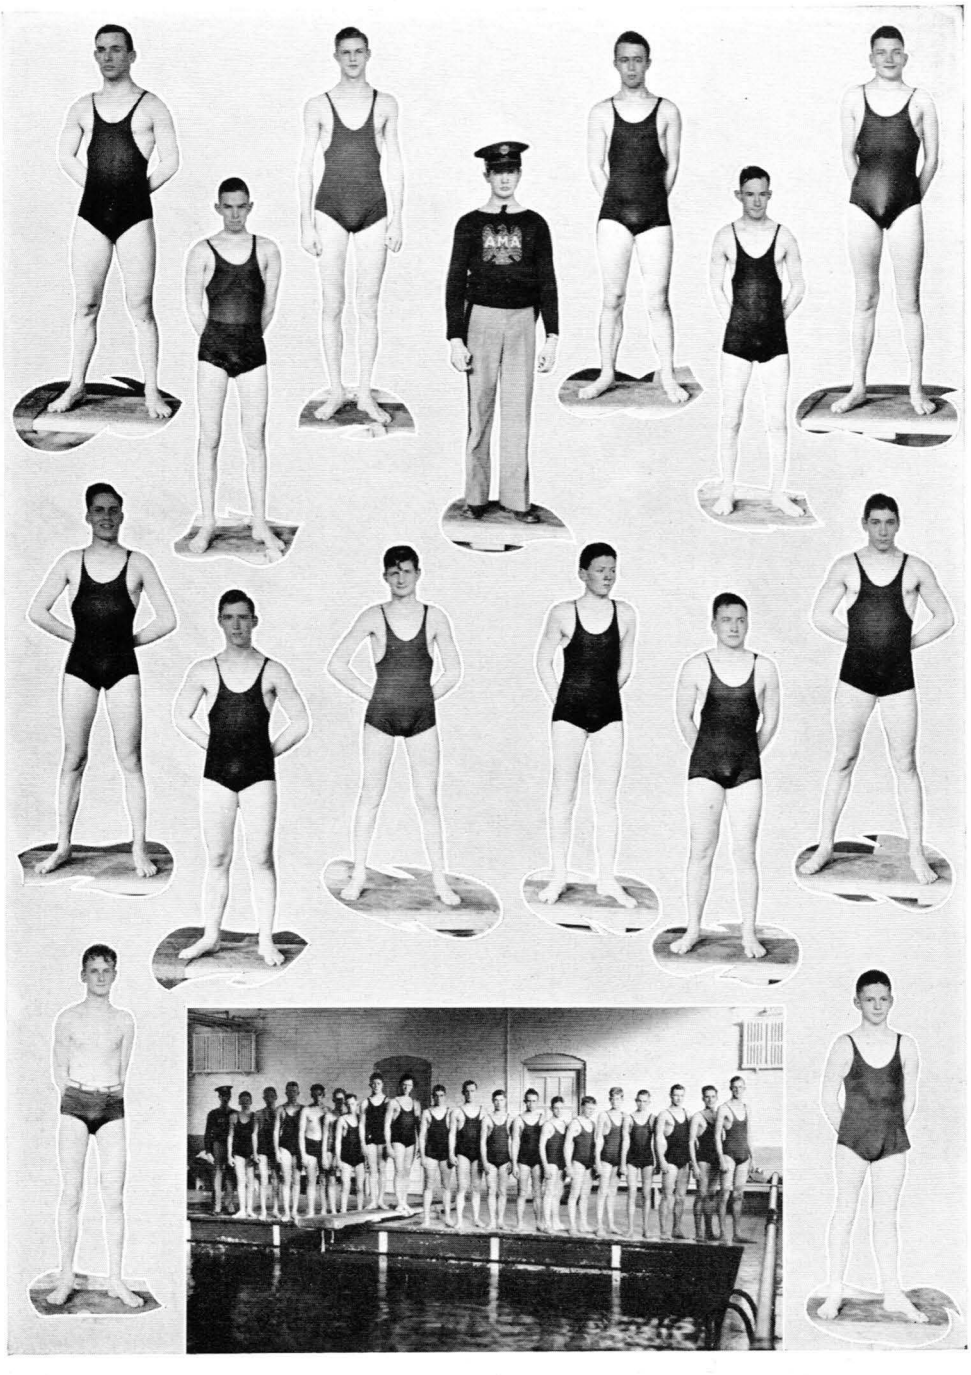

The team lost five meets and won three. We began by losing to the powerful Virginia Freshmen, Potts being the only man to take a first place. We then defeated Randolph-Macon in their pool, 39-27, with Potts taking two firsts and Gray, McIntire, and Redgrave one each.

The next meet was lost to Fishburne by a score of 35-31, but we were severely handicapped by the absence of three of our leading point-getters, Boykin, Redgrave, and Potts.

We next lost to the Washington and Lee Frehsmen, with only Redgrave and Bamford taking first places, but snapped back with a victory over Randolph-Macon in our own pool, with Norris, Bamford, Hunter, and Redgrave all taking firsts.

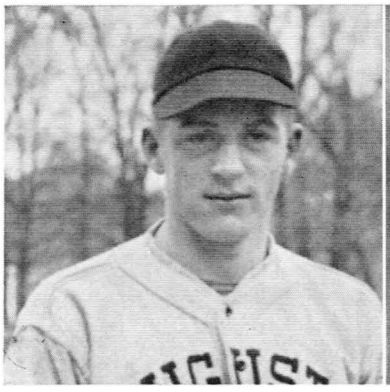

With the team at full strength, we had little trouble beating Fishburne 40½ to 24½, with Potts taking two first places, and Bamford, Redgrave, Wolfe, Gray, and Netherwood, F., taking one each, but we lost our last meet of the season when S. M. A. beat us 41-24. Our only winners were Bamford in the 50, and the relay team.

Bamford led the scorers with 60 points, and Potts followed him with 38.

BASEBALL TEAM

The baseball team was the least fortunate of all the teams in the matter of returning players, having only one letter man, and a very few of last year's reserves.

The team has had only four games to date, and has won one of them, a 2-1 victory over Middletown High School of Middletown, Pennsylvania.

We lost the first game of the season to the Harvard Freshmen as every man on the squad saw action. We also lost to the Adelphia Academy of Brooklyn, N. Y., by a score of 14-8, and a very close game to the University of Virginia Freshmen by a score of 12-11, with errors on the part of our infield costing us the game.

At this writing, Red Leatherman is leading the hitters with an average of .388. The other averages are as follows: Goodmon, .353; Johnson, .333; Millar, .333; Olmo, .312; Freixas, .250; Riley, .250, and Hodges, .212.

Track is one of the relatively new but one of the most successful sports at Augusta, and this year the advance showing of the track team shows they will again have a successful season.

As this is being written, the team has not participated in a meet as yet, but have meets scheduled with Randolph-Macon, Staunton, Fishburne, University of Virginia Frosh, Woodberry Forest, and the annual State Prep School meet at Charlottesville.

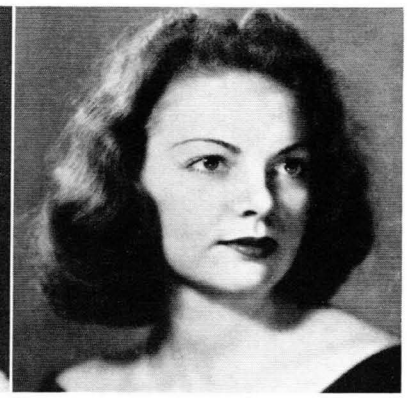

The team is built around four lettermen. Captain Carter, who specializes in the 440- and 880-yard runs; Hunter, javelin thrower and shot-putter; Gray, veteran dash man, and Kennedy, who runs the hurdles.

Among the promising newcomers are Board in the shot, Netherwood, F., Walker, H., Grow and Carleton in the distances, Hartley in the high jump and high hurdles, Marable in the discus, and Wolfe in the javelin, not to mention many others.

This year's rifle team was one of the most successful in the history of the school. The team defeated S. M. A. three times, and held one victory over Fishburne, who later won the Hearst Trophy for the highest score in the Third Corps Area.

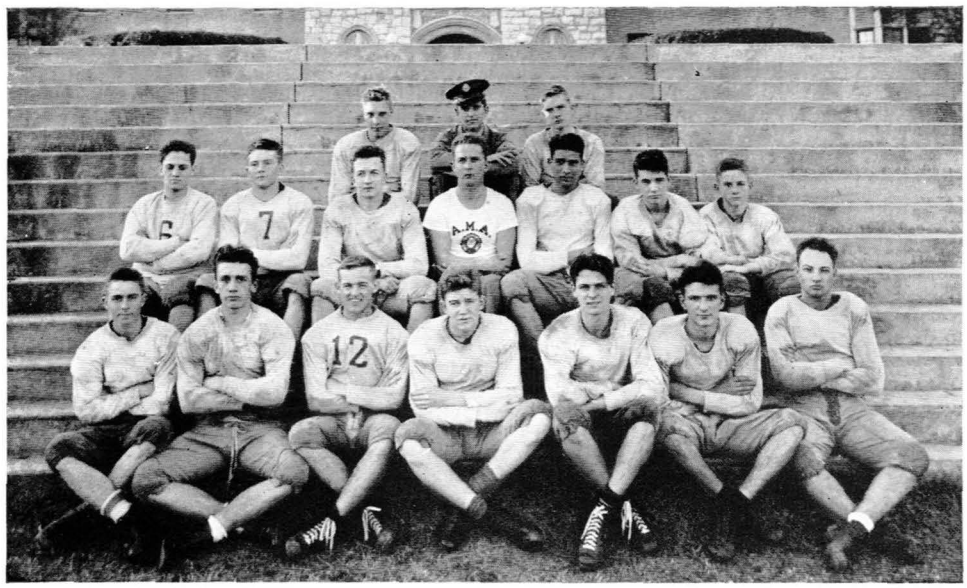

In addition to beating these two great rivals, we also won several correspondence matches with schools too distant for shoulder-to-shoulder competition, We were defeated by Fishburne once and by the V. P. I. Freshmen once.

At the end of the season, letters were awarded to the following men recommended by Lieutenant Caldwell: Grow, Hackney, Lane, Lambot, Lippincott, and Jones, T., Bolling, and Lafon turned in some good scores, but were prevented from getting letters as they were first year C. W.'s and ineligible.

"AD ASTRA PER ASPERA"

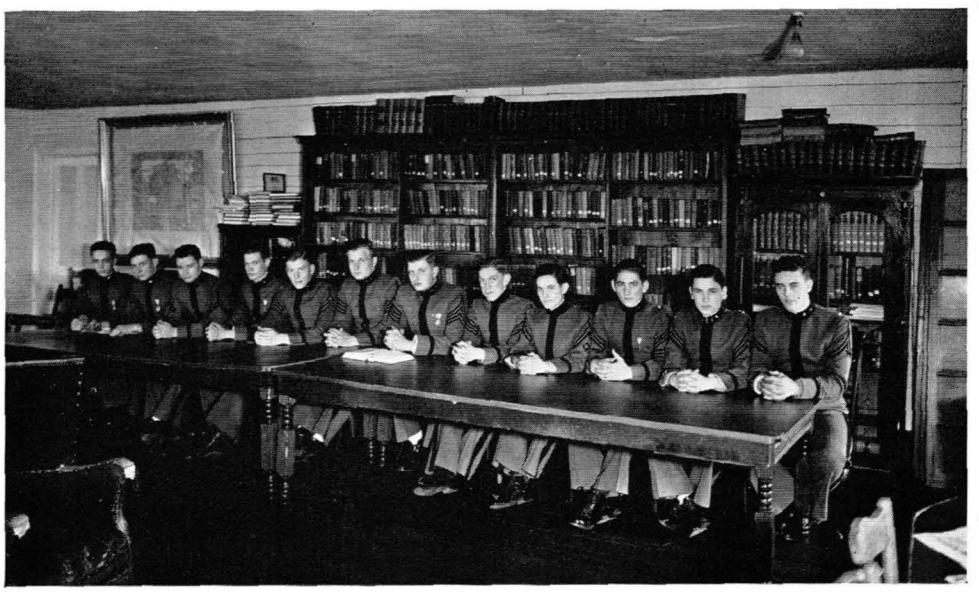

Back in 1924, Major Roller started a great society of brotherhood called the "Ad Astra Per Aspera" fraternity. The name of this society, the motto of our school, is clearly engraved beneath the eagle in the front arch and on the heart of every true alumnus. Each year the fraternity has grown to be more and more sought after and valued with respect.

This organization is increased each year by ten new members. The new members of this fraternity are chosen by the ten oldest members of the faculty and those cadet members who are present in the corps. The men who have literally risen to the heights through the greatest of difficulties are the choices of these judges.

There are now two faculty members present in the school, who are: Major C. S. Roller, Jr., and Sergeant S. S. Wales. The cadet members this year are: Charles Board and Alfred Bruch, who received their membership two years ago, and John Grow and Frank Bell, who received theirs last year.

All through life this great honor follows the members of this great organization, bringing them good luck and success in whatever they attempt.

THE HONOR COMMITTEE

When we speak of the Honor Committee, we speak of twelve honorable and upright men who uphold Augusta ideals. Each man has a difficult job to perform, for it is he who decides the future of a cadet who has gone wrong. They are very just in their treatment of those brought before them. Their main principle is to try to make a boy instead of breaking him. This year, more than previously, has the Honor Committee proven itself worthy of its high position. The standard of the honor of the school has been raised a great deal, and we are more than proud of this great achievement.

The officers of the Student Body are automatically the officers of this committee. Therefore, A. E. Bruch became its President, C. L. Board its Vice-President, G. T. Leatherman its Secretary, and E. M. Aldrich its Treasurer.

Two cadets elected from the Fourth Year Class were M. E. Gordon and J. M. Hackney. Selected to represent the Third Year Class were H. C. Watters, J. E. MsCausland, and J. M. Grow. Representing the Second Year Class were McK. Boykin, C. R. Schewe, and C. D. Walker.

Y. M. C. A.

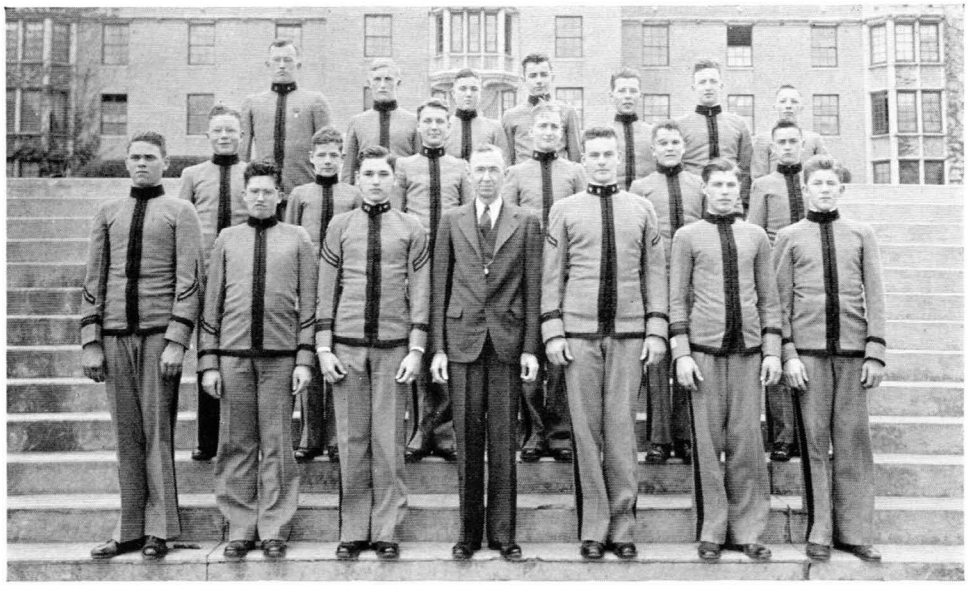

"Believe It Or Not!" According to Bob Ripley, Augusta has the distinction of having the oldest Y. M. C. A. in the nation. It has been moulded into the present charity-giving, helpful organization that makes all true Augustans proud to have been a member of it. The first accomplishment was the fine job done of associating the new cadets with the school life and of giving them assistance of every description. The really true duty of the "Y" was purchasing the annual dinner sent at Christmas time to the unfortunates at the Lynchburg Orphanage. Every cadet in school gave generously towards this great enterprise and the dinner this year was a complete success.

Another outstanding feature of the Y. M. C. A. is the annual Costume Ball. This year, the judges reported that the costumes were the gayest and most colorful ever to be seen at a Y. M. C. A. Costume Ball.

Putt Bruch again captured the honor of being elected President, and he did an excellent job of conducting meetings. The efficiency of Buddy McClausland plus his ever readiness to co-operate with the President, made him the ideal Vice-President. John McCune kept the minutes and notes of each meeting in perfect form and contributed largely to the success of the "Y." Clay Watters was a very capable Treasurer, and kept the books in fine shape. Other members of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet who were instrumental in its success were: Bell, Gittens, Goodmon, Umberger, and Young.

To Mrs. Robinson goes our sincere appreciation for accompanying the cadets in their weekly singing. Without her fine piano playing, the "Y" would not have been what it was. It is hard to thank Major Webb for his part in the Y. M. C. A. because he is so ever ready to encourage interest at the meetings. The Y. M. C. A. would certainly seem like a boat without a bottom were it not for Major Webb's part in the organization.

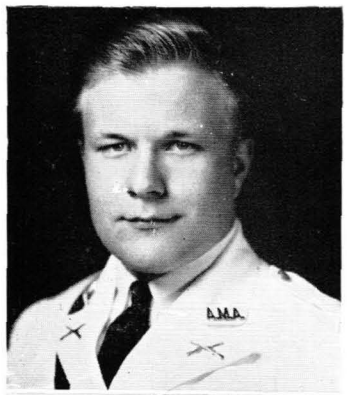

THE BIBLE CLASS

The Bible Class, which is one of the outstanding organizations at Augusta, was started several years ago with the specific purpose of teaching the cadets of the corps everything about the Bible. This class is composed of volunteer students who have an honest desire to learn something about the Bible.

The class meets every Wednesday evening under the capable supervision of the Reverend McBryde, pastor of the Old Stone Church. Without his earnest and capable direction, the Bible Class could not have been what it was. He deserves the sincere thanks of every member in this class; for he was instrumental in giving a great deal to each and every one.

Mr. McBryde, who always makes the classes very interesting, assigns various questions to each member for discussion at different intervals. The entire class joins in the discussion and sometimes very heated arguments are the result. This is very beneficial, as it enables each boy to give his opinions and ideas concerning the subject, helping not only the boy, but also the entire group.

Much credit is due the officers of the class who took much interest in helping it progress. Cadet Buddy McCausland was elected President and was truly deserving of this great honor. Cadet Allan Kendall was the class's efficient Secretary.

THE RECALL is probably the only thing that an A. M. A. alumnus will have to carry him back in his memories to the days of his cadetship. It is the authoritative presentation of the different phases of school life and classmates. Therefore, our goal has been to present to the Corps of 1938-'39 an annual that will stand as an all time high for bringing back the pleasant memories encountered at Augusta.

Our staff, with the exception of a few, was chosen entirely from inexperienced men, but by their effort and devotion to work, plus the very able supervision of Captain McCue, they have presented an annual that will stand as a tribute to them all.

Under the competent leadership of our Editor-in-Chief, Pudgy Board, who is serving his second term in this capacity, we have succeeded in completing an annual that will be cherished by all. His all-around ability, stamina, and efficiency were combined to form a perfect task-master. He has executed his duties well and has capably helped us all.

When Mel Alper was appointed Business Manager, we found a man who successfully handled all our financial worries. Mel has labored hard keeping our accounts straight, and trying to collect enough money to put over this annual. His work was not confined to money matters alone, for he assisted in the write-ups and advertising.

Al Bruch had the difficult task of trying to get the Staunton business men to give us ads. He has done a fine job, and this year THE RECALL is "chock full" of advertisements.

Football, basketball, boxing, swimming, track, and baseball—all these go together to give Bob Mitchell very much of a headache when writing up the sports. Bob has done his work well, and we thank him from the bottom of our hearts.

Mac Boykin, the Literary Editor, has given everybody the appearance of being extremely lazy, but were the truth known that the desire and ability to work, hidden behind that mask of extreme laziness, have spurred him on; so that very few words have been put down without his sanction.

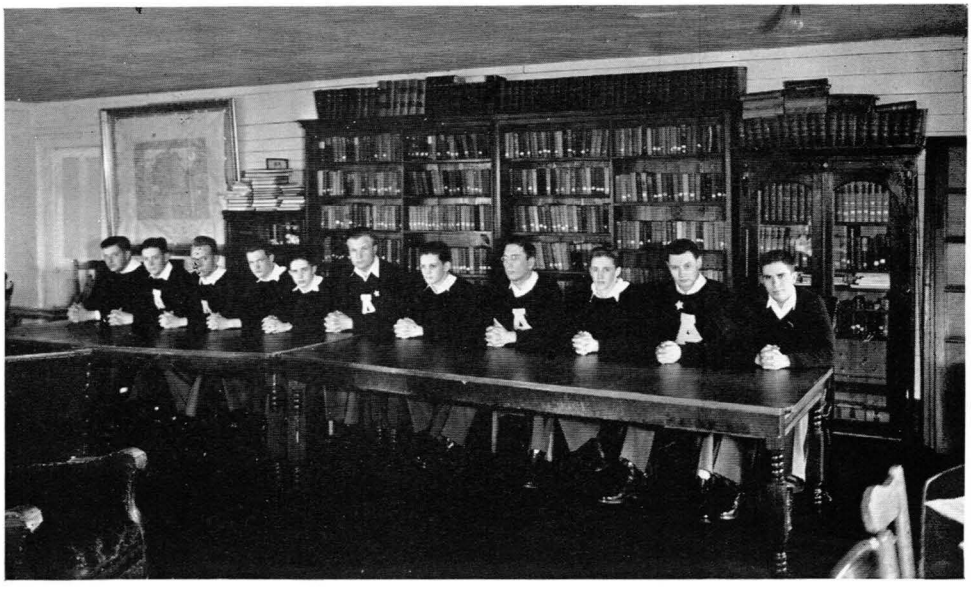

As Art Editor, Roosevelt Rich, has done his best to accurately and comically portray the Cadets' Who's Who, and he has done so with startling results.

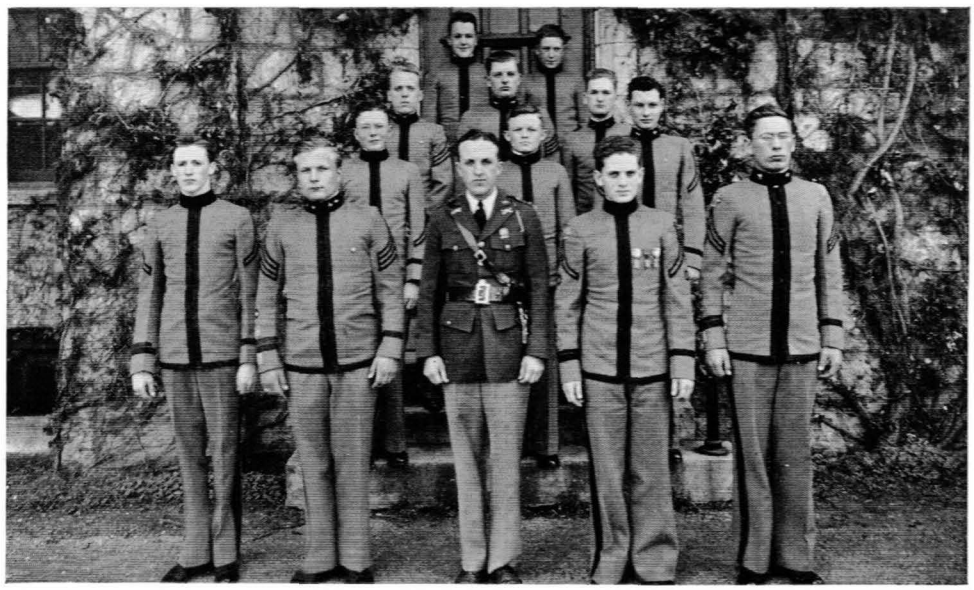

John McCune had the difficult task of compiling the directory. This was a very tiresome job, but John completed his work accurately and thoroughly.

The portrayal of cadet life is shown in the snapshot section, which has been excellently completed under the guiding hand of Johnnie Grow.

Bobbie Beam and Clay Watters, as the Assistant Advertising and Business Managers, respectively, have proven a wonderful help, not only on the Advertising and Business end, but also on the Editorial Staff. Frank Bell completed the Staff as a member of the Advertising Staff.

CICERONIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

The Ciceronian Literary Society, one of the oldest in America among Prep-School circles, was founded by Professor Charles Roller, the father of our present principals. It has progressed from its modest beginning and has become an integral part in the school activities. Most of the cadets begin to miss the meetings and debates in the middle of the month, but at the end of the month everyone is again pleased when Major Roller announces, "During the sixth period there will be a meeting of the Ciceronian Literary Society."

The success of this society can be traced to our very able President, Pudgy Board, who took time off from his other many activities to preside over every meeting with the assurance of a veteran.

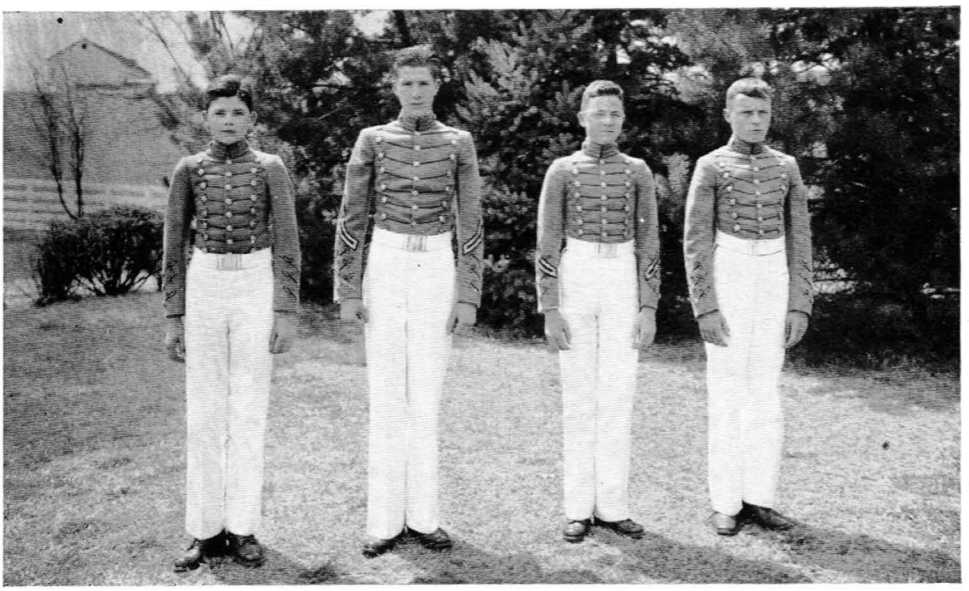

The Vice-President, Al Bruch, was a fine officer, helping the President to the best of his ability, and was Class Valedictorian.

As Secretary, Hock Hackney worked hard and diligently, performing each of his assigned duties well throughout the entire year.

The Treasurer, John Grow, and the Sergeant-at-Arms, Dave Winslow, completed the officers of this efficient organization.

To Major Roller, our Faculty Adviser, we extend our gracious and sincere thanks. He has taught us the rudiments of parliamentary procedure and has given us a background for future public speaking.

The question for debate at the final meeting of the society was, resolved: The United States should establish a permanent policy of mandatory neutrality to be operative in time of war. On the affirmative side were Cadets Young and Mitchell, R., and on the negative side were Cadets Gasque and Alper. The following cadets gave very good declamations: Watters, Riley, Gittens, Adams, H. N., and Dix.

THE JUNIOR LITERARY SOCIETY

The Junior Literary Society is organized for the purpose of giving the smaller boys in school an opportunity to do some public speaking. Of course the subjects are not as broad as those taken by up the Ciceronian Literary Society, but to these youngsters they cover a large field.

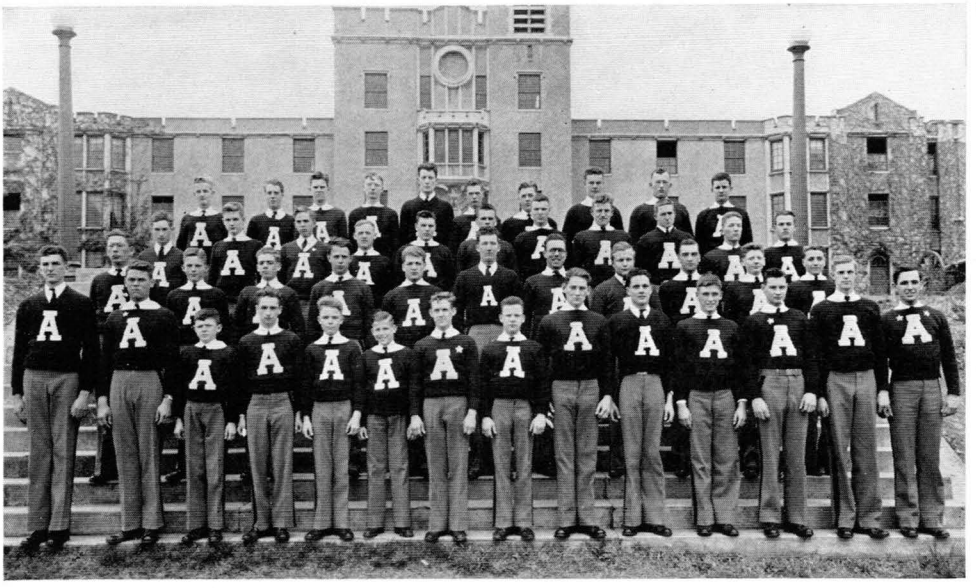

The parliamentary law taught these boys teaches them the customs of courts and debates. Through these debates, they learn to stand on their own feet and overcome what would later prove a great handicap, stage fright. This all has to be accomplished in the short space of an hour per meeting, thus each speaker has only a short time to speak. The most is made of this time and its results are judged by the beneficial work done.

Each year at Finals this organization places one or more men in the Declamation contest and often their spokesmen meet with success. This is more proof of their achievements, for the way in which these boys perform shows that they have overcome all their former faults.

The officers of this year's society included: Larry Montgomery as President, Ed Brown as Vice-President, Fuller Dibrell as Secretary and Treasurer, and last but not least, Pat Georger as Sergeant-at-Arms.

CAVALRY

The cavalry, one of the newest and most enjoyable organizations on the post, was founded several years ago by the Late Lieutenant Charles S. Roller, III. Through his careful guidance and leadership, the cavalry progressed from the modest horse troop of old to the perfected military unit that it is today.

The members of the cavalry have improved so rapidly under Captain Creel's guidance that they have begun to resemble the United States Army Cavalry in precision and form. Too much credit cannot be given to Captain Creel and his able assistants, Lieutenants Worsham, Twombly, and Jones, who have labored hard producing the efficient horsemen that compose our cavalry.

This year, in addition to attending several of the Glenmore hunts, the cavalry enjoyed many afternoons riding with their own newly-founded hunt club. The new hunt club was organized by Major Roller and Captain Creel, through whose combined efforts the cavalry hunt club is expected to become recognized by the other hunt clubs of the state.

At Finals, the cavalry gave their annual horse show, and the members gave many fine exhibitions of horsemanship and jumping that have not been equaled since the founding of this unit.

Much credit for the remarkable showing at Finals must be given to Captain Creel, who every afternoon gave the riders the benefit of his many years of riding with the United States Cavalry. Major Roller has been very active in the progress of the cavalry, and we thank him for the part he played in making this the best horse organization among Prep-Schools in the state.

GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club is a great factor in cadet life at Augusta. It has many members, all of whom have good voices and have a desire to improve them and at the same time provide entertainment for many occasions, such as the Y.M.C.A. Christmas program, and at Finals.

Under the able direction of Captain Martin G. Manch the Glee Club has developed into a very well trained group of singers who are more than capable of giving a fine performance whenever called upon to do so. Since most of the members were very green and inexperienced, Captain Manch had a difficult job, but with every one eager to learn he soon overcame these difficulties. Lieutenant Jones was also very instrumental in helping to form such a fine Glee Club.

Cadet McCune was chosen President of the club and gave much needed assistance in getting all the men to practice on time.

STAMP CLUB

The Augusta Philatelic Society was established last year to give the stamp collectors of the Academy a chance to trade their stamps. Major Webb, the founder and Faculty Adviser, has been instrumental in arranging many interesting meetings. The newly-formed club, under the guidance of this excellent organizer, has become a perfected organization.

John McCune, the President, is one of the most ardent stamp collectors in barracks. He has devoted much of his time to the fulfillment of this office, and we are sure that he has executed his duties well.

As Vice-President, Bob Mitchell executed his duties to the fullest extent and co-operated with the President in participation in the activities of the club.

Mel Alper kept his notes in order and made an excellent Secretary, while Wallace Lane handled the financial troubles to the best of his ability.

The club met every other week and many interesting programs to stamp collectors were given. The members enjoyed all the meetings and participated in the swapping and bargaining very heartily.

We hope that the Stamp Club will continue to flourish and make the strides as it has done in the past.

THE OPENING AND THANKSGIVING DANCES

The sole aim of the Cotillion Club at Augusta is to provide dances that will be enjoyed by all. The Cotillion Club of 1939 has accomplished this aim with the greatest success.

George Leatherman was elected President; Jack Dundala, Vice-President; Hack Hackney, Secretary, and Willie Rossello, Treasurer.

The Opening Dance, or new cadet eye-opener, was led by Cadet Hackney and Miss Anne Hayes, with Cadet Hume and his partner giving their assistance. Sweet music was provided by the University of Virginia Cavaliers.

Next came the Thanksgiving Dances, which were two of the best dances of the year. These dances were led by Cadet Dundala and Miss Fanita Chambers, assisted by Cadet Jones and his partner. The gymnasium was decorated in true Thanksgiving fashion, and the music was provided by Billie Brooks and his Orchestra.

THE MID-WINTER AND EASTER DANCES

Soon after the Christmas holidays came the Mid-Winter dance, led by Cadet Rossello and assisted by Cadet Kane and his partner. The gymnasium was beautifully decorated with flags of all nations. Ray Frye and his Virginians furnished most excellent music for the dancers. This dance seemed to be the most successful dance of the year, excluding the Final Ball.

Then came a short vacation, government inspection, and then the Easter Dances, which were led by Red Leatherman, accompanied by Miss Connie Wolford and ably assisted by Cadet Escallon and his partner. The gym was beautifully decorated and the sweet music was offered by Jack Wardlaw and his Rolling Rhythm.

The final Cotillion Club dance, which was held the last Saturday of the school year, was as successful as the other dances.

The corps expresses their sincere appreciation to the Cotillion Club of 1939 for giving such marvelous dances.

THE FINAL BALL

For many years the Final Ball has been the biggest and best dance of the year, and this year was no exception. Putt Bruch was elected to lead the Ball, and for his assistant he chose Bud Bell. These two men must be given much credit for the way in which they handled all the details and financial matters pertaining to the Ball. Other members of the committee included: John Grow, Hack Hackney, John Hunter, Hiro Young, John McCune, and Pudge Board.

Not long after the committee had been chosen the orchestra and favors were chosen. The committee took great care in selecting the favors, and we venture to say that they made a hit with everyone. For the orchestra they chose George Hall and his orchestra, a well known band with a very good name.

Before the dance came the ever famous Figure, which was one of the best in the history of the school. All the credit for the success of the Figure must be given to Major Robinson, who gave up hours of his valuable time to make it what it was.

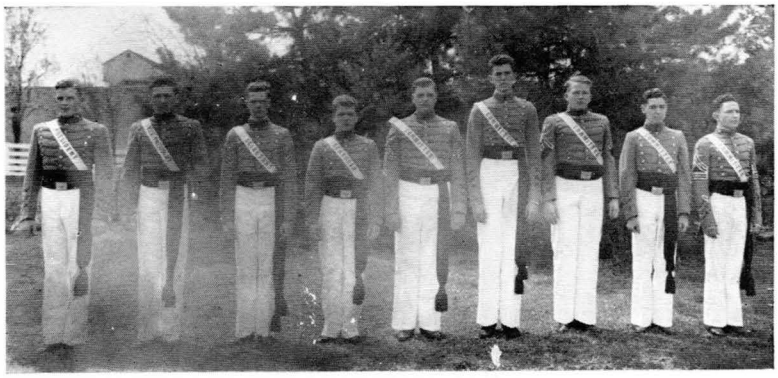

The gymnasium ceiling was adorned with blue and white crepe paper, which was very well done. Soft lights and sweet music completed the picture.

At intermission a light lunch was served in the sunken garden. This was a vital part of the Ball and it would not seem the same without it.

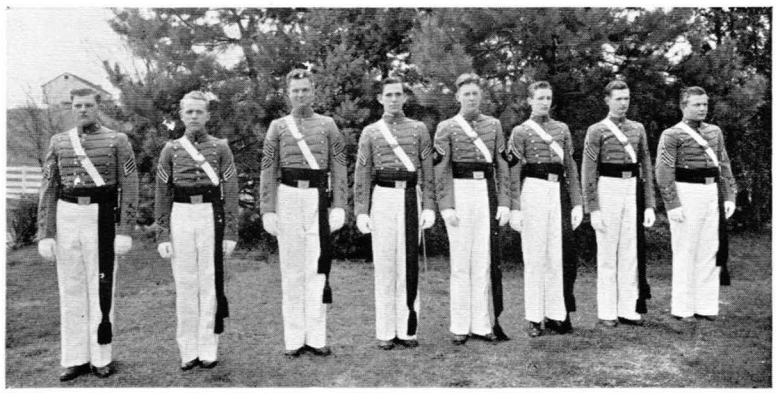

As the rays of Old Sol appear over the mountain, the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" die away, the Final Ball of 1939, the biggest and best dance of the year, remains but a sweet memory.

CLASS PROPHECY

It was the year of our Lord 1943. The setting was the front line trenches along Lilly Valley. As the dull boom of distant artillery punctuated the early morning stillness, I, a raw recruit, slowly made my way through puddles of water towards a dimly lighted dugout.

As I thrust aside the flap concealing the interior from prying enemy eyes, a familiar tone struck my ear. "Operator, operator! Gimme 729. Naw, dammit, not headquarters, Mary Baldwin College—729." I glanced in surprise toward the lieutenant having such difficulties with the telephone service. Well, scratch my breastplate if it wasn't my old pal, Hackney. I rushed over to him, heedless of reclining bodies in the way, and grabbed his paw. As I enthusiastically pumped the grimy hand, I inquired as to the trouble. Resignedly he shook his head. "They want a nickel before they'll complete the connection. This is a hell of an army!"

Then remembering that we had been brother rats at dear old Augusta Military Academy, he took me over to a corner where a bedraggled group were seated. "Meet the gang," he said. "You know most of them already." I acknowledged the greetings,, then directed my attention to two who were so intensely engrossed in cutting a pack of cards that they didn't even look up. Hack explained, "That's Sot Mitchell and Clint Thomas. They're trying to decide who will wear the pants. We're awfully short on equipment," he added apologetically.

Suddenly we heard a strange noise outside. Drawing his pistol, the lieutenant eased out of the doorway, motioning me to follow. As we peered over the parapet, I could dimly make out a rotund form crawling aimlessly in the dark. Faintly we could make out mumblings interspersed with agonized sobs. It sounded like, "Where is it? Where is it? Oh, I've lost it. My precious little point-nine, my beautiful point-nine lens." "My God," whispered Hack. "It's Al, Al Bruch." Before we could attract his attention, the form shambled off into the darkness of No Man's Land. There was the sudden chatter of a machine gun, a scream, then silence. "That's all," murmured Hackney, and we went silently inside.

As I entered the door, I stumbled across a body, and immediately a weird chuckle broke the quiet. I turned to confront a strangely familiar face wearing the blankest expression I had ever seen. Sot quickly explained, "That's Foggy Marable. You remember him. He's shell-shocked, poor fellow, but he has his uses. I'll show you." Taking a tin plate from a pile of kitchen utensils in one corner, he led the dazed soldier outside. Then, drawing the pin from a hand grenade, he placed it on the plate and handed it to Foggy. Bending low, our ex-discus thrower spun the plate high into the air. A gust of wind caught it and blew it back ovr our heads. A few seconds later, a dull boom sounded to our rear in the direction of a supply dump. In practically no time, a large ham came whirling down out of the air and pitched into my arms. "Aha, direct hit," crowed Sot.

Back in the dugout, the lieutenant called me aside. "I'm sending you out on a scouting mission," he said. "Be prepared to go immediately." After making a few preparations, I climbed the trench and wiggled out into the darkness. Winding my way among barbed wire, dead bodies, and abandoned equipment, I became aware of a murmured conversation a few yards away. "Ride 'em high, ivories. Hot dawg, boxcars!" I peered over the edge of a shell hole, and by the intermittent light of flares, I made out two figures whom I immediately recognized. Seated facing each other were Jack Bamford and Mickey Gordon, the latter in the uniform of the hostile troops. Staring down at a pair of galloping dominoes, Jack was grinning from ear to ear, while Mick was slowly stripping off his shirt. From the pile of various articles near Strap, I knew that, given time, he could win the war single-handed.

Not desiring to intrude, I kept on toward the opposing forces. I had gone perhaps fifty yards when suddenly a quavering voice lifted to the stars. I recognized what was left of the tune as an old favorite in the neighborhood of room 205 back at A. M. A. 'Twas none other than our dear old comrade, Jimmy Umberger, situated in an enemy listening post. Overcome by the lack of sounds to listen to, lonely Umpy had decided to manufacture some.

I decided not to interrupt my friend. So, avoiding his post, I continued on my mission. I was cautiously creeping between two stiff and unconcerned corpses when unexpectedly, I found myself tumbling head foremost down a steep declivity. Before I had time to recover from this bewildering occurrence, excited voices arose, and I was bodily hauled to my feet by none too gentle hands. My captors struck a match, and we recognized each other in the next moment. Quickly, I was hustled down into a dugout, where, after being disarmed, I related to Evan Johnson and Sonny Mitchell, for it was they, my experiences and the events leading up to my falling into the enemy trench.

As the first streaks of grey lightened the eastern sky, my two Augusta acquaintances wakened me. Then, accompanied by a group of other prisoners, I was taken behind the lines toward a nearby concentration camp. I must relate several singular occurrences which happened on our journey to the rear. We had hardly started when up ahead there was a shout, "Gangway, look out!" I was pushed to one side just as an indiscernable blur whizzed past me and immediately after, another one. I turned to one of the guards for enlightenment. "Oh, that's Tom Carter limbering up for the day's work. Don't you remember his spectacular running at the military academy. He's so fast that we use him to run up behind some of our artillery shells just after they've been fired and give an added push. He's a speed demon. The other? That was Tubgut Worthington, who, as you may recall, is affectionately known as "the Shadow." While pondering the amazing number of my old friends who were so mysteriously turning up, I noticed coming down the road the sprightly figure of a youth with a basket on his arm. As we passed, he waved a greeting. Again the explanation was forthcoming from my friend, the guard. It seems that Pete Hopkins had become so known for the gentleness with which he handled his men that he was detailed as transportation for the eggs supplied daily to the men in the trenches.

Soon we came to Middle River. The bridge had been blown up, and I was looking about for some means of crossing. The puzzle was soon solved, however, as two of us were placed in, of all things, a bath tub. This remarkable conveyance was piloted by Cecil Gnann, widely noted for his ability with a paddle. He was greatly enthused with his job and was bent upon explaining every detail to his passengers. "In winter," he said, "we turn this faucet and let in some hot water to warm the feet, and in summer, the other is turned, letting in cold to cool 'em off." "But why," I asked, "doesn't this thing sink?" "Simple enough," he stated. "If there's too much water in it, I just pull the plug and let it out." I let this pass and sat in silence until we reached the shore.

As we were herded together upon the bank, our guards snapped to attention. "It's the Colonel," was the whispered news. I glanced around, then stared hard, for here came riding up at full gallop, Ted Collins upon a mule, and behind him, astride the same animal, was Ralph Escallon, holding an umbrella over the Colonel's head. "Hold everything!" cried he. "I'll have transportation for the prisoners right away." As he finished speaking, up roared a quartet of long blue trucks. Out of the leading one jumped an irate young person, carrot-topped Ed Aldrich, looking quite incensed. What's the big idea," he fairly screamed, "of confiscating my pop's Greyhound buses and converting them into these damn trucks?" "Sorry, pal, but it had to be done," was the rejoinder. Ed accepted this with a good deal of grumbling, but we were soon crammed into the ex-buses.

Speeding down the shell-pocked road, it was not long before we reached the Staunton city limits. As we passed Mary Baldwin Seminary, I leaned out to get a good look. It appeared that I was not the only interested person in the vicinity; for, up in a tree on the campus were two figures. The one with the binoculars trained on a lighted window, I distinguished as Tom Gasque, while the other, plotting in a notebook by means of obscure mathematical formulae the probable movements of the inmates, was easily recognizable as Mcgee McCune.

Upon disembarking, we were immediately rushed to a nearby steam-bath, the purpose of which was to eradicate the ever-present vermin from our lily white skins. Strange as it may seem, my old buddy, Mel Alper, was the janitor. He explained the advantages of his position. "I make good money collecting the discarded parasites and selling them to traveling flea circuses."

We were then marched to the nearby canteen, known in the old days as the "Arcadia," now owned and operated by a disreputable character, who, minus his tousled blond beard, had been listed on the Augusta roll as Cal Jones. "What'll ye have, gents," he beamed. "We serve nice fresh ham," shoving forward a few slabs of that inimitable mutton said to be the main staple on the Roller farms, "good steaks," appearing with a sample of the aforesaid meat, "stew," a concoction of the same, disguised with potatoes, "gravy and greens, or chipped beef," bringing out a whole side of slaughtered lamb with the wool clinging to it. To be on the safe side, we ordered stew without the meat.

We were sadly forcing down the repugnant mess, when a sudden slap on the back made me swallow the spoon. The chair next to mine was quickly occupied by "Fisheye" Curry, the champion swordsman of Augusta. While exploring my oral cavity for the lost tinware, I listened to a sad tale. It seems that, considering his past record as a fencer, the authorities had selected my chum to string barbed wire fences in front of the trenches. I heard from him, too, news of several others of my erstwhile companions. Marvin Cappel was now a scientist in a government laboratory and had made a fortune capitalizing on one of his friends' idea for liquid light. This was placed in small balloons and floated over the opposing lines. Then their famed pursuit pilot, Willie Rossello, Augusta's expert boxer, dived down upon the spheres, swinging left uppercuts and right crosses with amazing speed. The liquid light would spill from the deflated balloons onto the heads of the men in the trenches below, making the excellent targets for observant snipers.

"Bood" Bell, I learned, was a lieutenant in the supply department. His job was feeding the chickens and making them lay nice big eggs. "Country" Johnson had swiped some dynamite fuses one night while in a slightly inebriated state and planted them in several nearby haversacks. His victims were never heard from again, and he, wandering around in a daze, had absent mindedly pulled the pin from a hand grenade and forgotten to throw it away. I was told also of the distressing demise of Frank McIntire, the Gawgia kid; he had been experimenting wth rockets for some time, and had finally built a super-powerful projectile, leaving "Uncle" Riley as a guard for the night before the test flight. With a lonesome evening before him, "Unc" had provided himself with a piece of string and spent the time playing cat's-cradle. The next morning, with but a few army officers as spectators, the invention finally soared high into the air, taking with it Mac, suspended in mid-air by the string, which had both become enmeshed in the mechanism and wrapped around the man's leg.

I heard alll this with much interest, and it was ended all too soon. "Fisheye" wished me luck as we were collected by our guards and promised to remember me to all my boyhood friends. As we slowly marched up the street, I pondered on the futility of the human race and its desires; for was this not a long ways from what we had considered our futures?
